REPORT RED TROOPS MASS IN BALKANS

Marion Woman Killed, 4 Hurt in Auto Mishap

MRS. DOWELL OF CHASE ST. CRASH VICTIM

Fatally Hurt As Car Hits Pole Near Dover; 2 in Serious Condition.

Mrs. Frances E. Dowell, 74, of 225 Chase street, was fatally injured and four other Marion persons were hurt, two believed seriously, in an automobile accident yesterday at 11:30 a. m. on Route 39 at Sugar Creek, eleven miles this side of Dover, O.

Mrs. Dowell, active in Epworth Methodist church work, died last night at 7:40 in Union hospital at Dover without regaining consciousness.

The injured are Mrs. Hazel Eckfield of the Elite apartments on South Main street, and her daughter, Jean, 19, both in Union hospital. Charles Straw, 76, of 135 South Main street, and Robert Dean who rooms at the Dowell home.

Mrs. Eckfield, employed in the payroll department at the Marion Steam Shovel Co., and her daughter were to be given X-ray examinations today, according to word this morning from the hospital. Both were reported to have rested well last night. Extent of their injuries will not be known until the X-ray examination is made but the daughter may have a fractured skull. Both were badly bruised and Mrs. Eckfield suffered severe shock. The daughter is a student at a business school in Columbus.

Ribs Fractured

Mr. Straw, who suffered severe lacerations of the forehead and several fractured ribs, was released from the hospital last night. Mr. Dean, an employe of the Universal Cooler Corp., escaped with minor bruises.

The party of five left Marion at 7:30 yesterday morning on a trip to view the fall scenery. They intended to go to New Washington, Pa., but because of leisurely driving and several detours, time passed quickly and at about 11 it was proposed that within a short time the party stop and eat a picnic lunch which had been prepared for the trip.

At Sugar Creek Mr. Straw asked Mr. Dean, driver and owner of the car, if he could drive for a bit and Mr. Dean immediately stopped and turned the wheel over to Mr. Straw.

Mr. Dean said this morning the car had hardly started again when Mr. Straw lost control and in the excitement apparently pushed down on the accelerator instead of the brake pedal. The car careened into a utility pole, hitting on the left side at an angle that ripped open the door.

Thrown From Car

Mrs. Eckfield and her daughter, who were in the back seat with Mrs. Dowell, and Mr. Straw were thrown clear of the car. Mr. Dean said that he was thrown about half-way out of the front seat and that when he got out he looked back and saw Mrs. Dowell was caught on the front seat. He lifted her out. She was stunned and never regained consciousness. Mrs. Dowell suffered a fractured pelvis, probably internal injuries, bruises about the face and severe shock.

That all of the party were not electrocuted was termed "miraculous" by Mr. Dean this morning. He said that the utility pole which the car struck was a high-tension pole carrying about 12,000 volts. When the impact jarred the pole back, two wires broke.

The trip yesterday was origin-

DAVEY COMING INTO COUNTY TOMORROW

Speeches Scheduled at Prospect and Marion.

Plans were nearing completion today for two Marion county talks tomorrow by former Gov. Davey, seeking election as governor on the Democratic ticket.

Starting from Delaware at noon, where he speaks at an ox roast, Davey will swing down to Prospect for a talk at the public square at 3 p. m., and then to Marion for a brief address from the courthouse steps at about 4 p. m.

In event of rain the Prospect talk will be at the school and the Marion talk at Democratic headquarters on East Center street.

Several state candidates will accompany the former governor. Kenneth M. Petri of Galion, candidate for Eighth district congressman, is also expected here.

REGISTRATION PLANS SPEEDED

Precinct Officials To Get Instructions at Countywide Meeting Tonight.

Preparations are moving ahead swiftly for registration of Marion county's young men Wednesday for the nation's first peacetime military draft. Tonight at 8 in the common pleas court room the board of elections will hold a meeting of the 342 precinct election officials who will handle the registration.

Various supplies will be distributed and final instructions given. It is not expected that all 342 workers will attend, but each of the county's 57 precincts will be represented.

Meanwhile two of the county's three draft boards have organized and the third was scheduled to meet this afternoon.

Announcement of the names of the county's 27 draft officials was made Saturday on authorization of Adjutant General Gilson D. Light of Columbus, head of the state selective service board, but President Roosevelt has not yet made the formal appointments.

Rural Board Elects

The draft board for the rural areas of the county met Saturday night and chose Dan L. LaMarche of Marion township, living in Vernon Heights, as chairman, and Dwight W. Mahaffey of Morral as secretary. The board selected for its permanent offices the basement of the post office. It will occupy the first room at the southwest corner of the post office, used frequently by federal tax collectors. Other members of the board are W. Hoover Brown of 429 Mt. Vernon avenue, Edwin K. Powell of Prospect, both present at Saturday night's meeting at the Marion club, and Dr. H. A. Hoopes of near LaRue.

The draft board for Wards 1, 2 and 3 organized Friday afternoon in a meeting at the law library in the courthouse, electing Thomas E. Andrews of East Fairground street as chairman and Elmer R. Bondley of 385 Monroe street as secretary. The permanent offices of this board also will be in the post office basement, adjacent to the offices of the rural Marion county board.

Other members of this board are Walter C. Bailey of 395 North Main street, Henry P. Drake of 335 North State street and Fred G. Patton of 649 Oak street.

To Organize Today

The third board, representing Wards 4, 5 and 6, was to organize this afternoon. On this board are Walter A. Dorsey of 293 South Vine street, Charles A. Felker of 475 Forest street, D. A. Howard

(Turn to REGISTRATION, Pg. 13)

Flag To Mark Each Registration Place

The American flag will be prominently displayed at each draft registration place Wednesday, election officials reported today. Instructions to raise the flag to help identify each polling place were received from Columbus. Election officials said workers in each precinct would be asked to supply a large flag. If none is available, the election board has smaller flags which may be used.

Patriotism Is Theme At Farewell for Guardsmen

Star Auditorium Filled As Marion Honors O. N. G. Units; Judge Matthias Pleads for Americanism.

Marion yesterday afternoon paid tribute to her National Guardsmen who will be mobilized tomorrow to form the city's first organized group for national defense training.

A crowd of some 900 men, women and children, including members of Co. D and Headquarters Detachment and their families, filled The Star auditorium for the rally which was arranged as a communitywide party for the guardsmen by Marion Lodge No. 32, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. They heard pledges from Marion civic, fraternal and patriotic leaders that when the guardsmen return after their service their jobs will be waiting for them and that during their absence their fellow townsmen will be "fighting the enemies at home." They applauded heartily as the speakers, including Judge Edward S. Matthias of the Ohio supreme court, expressed their confidence in America and in the ability of her people to ward off invaders "from without and from within."

"Au Revoir" to Guardsmen

Grant E. Mouser Jr., the chairman, seemed to sum up the sentiment of all Marion when he told the guardsmen at the close of the meeting:

"Those of us who stay at home will be with you in spirit wherever you may be and we shall remember you when you return. With this we bid you 'au revoir' but not goodbye."

The guardsmen of both companies were in uniform and sat in a body at the front of the auditorium. It was the last time they will meet as a unit until they mobilize tomorrow for one year's training at Camp Shelby, Miss.

In the principal address, Judge Matthias, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, urged loyalty to Americanism on the part of every citizen and called for a ferreting out and destruction of fifth column activities.

"The time has come when we need a new baptism of patriotism, a new baptism of Americanism," he declared. "It is always bad to have a threat of war but it is almost worth having that threat to have our people wakened and to see again the meaning of the American spirit of patriotism."

Cites Duty of Those at Home

He emphasized the duty of those not actually taking part in the armed defense of the nation and pointed out the need for a continuous, forceful spirit of Americanism.

"The very same duty and responsibility that falls on an American soldier in time of an emergency, that very same duty and responsibility falls upon every citizen," Judge Matthias said.

"When a crisis comes we rise splendidly to meet that crisis but when it passes we sit back and forget that there are still dangers and threats against the welfare of the nation."

"Americanism," he said, "is an unfailing love of country; loyalty to its institutions and ideals; eagerness to defend it against all enemies; undivided allegiance to the flag; and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and posterity."

Call for Defense

Judge Matthias expressed the opinion that our national defenses should be developed on land, on sea and in the air and made so strong "that we can say with assurance, 'we shall not go over

HARDING HIGH SAFE LOOTED

Burglars Take Between $300 and $400; E. Center St. Store Also Entered.

Between $300 and $400 in cash was taken in a burglary at Harding High school last night or early today. A large safe in the principal's office was pried open.

An attempt also was made to break open a safe at the Cussins & Fearn Co. store at 179 East Center street last night but the attempt failed and apparently nothing was taken, police reported.

High School Principal O. H. P. Snyder, who estimated the loot at the high school, said the money had been set aside in a dozen or more special funds and that a complete record was not immediately available.

Patrolmen Harry Smith and Henry Tong, who investigated the burglary reported entrances to the building apparently was gained through a door in vocational department in the basement. The door apparently had been left unlocked through an oversight, they said.

Door Pried Open

A door leading from a first floor hallway into Mr. Snyder's private office was pried open, presumably with a heavy crowbar, the officers reported. Mr. Snyder said the burglars confined their work to the safe, which is in his office, since nothing else in the office or the rest of the building was disturbed.

A heavy steel and concrete door on the safe was demolished and police said the burglars apparently were equipped with chisels, crowbars and a sledge hammer. Presumably they first knocked the locking combination from the safe door with a sledge hammer and then used chisels and crowbars to pry off a heavy sheet of steel encasing the outside of the door.

Ohio Typographical Conference Elects George W. Sorreles As President

Marion Star Employe Chosen at Meeting in Dayton.

George W. Sorreles of Green Camp, president of Marion local No. 675, International Typographical Union, Sunday was elected president of the Ohio Typographical Conference at the sixty-seventh semi-annual sessions in Dayton. His wife, Mrs. Virginia W. Sorreles, secretary-treasurer of Woman's Auxiliary No. 179 of Marion, was reelected state secretary of the auxiliary.

Mr. Sorreles, who succeeds Ben Kroger of Cincinnati as head of the 52 printers' locals in the state, is employed in The Star office composing rooms. Reese Highfield of Akron was elected vice president and Roy Hiller of Dayton was reelected secretary-treasurer. Other auxiliary officers elected are Mrs. Harry West of Cleveland, president; Mrs. Roy Hiller of Dayton, first vice president; and Mrs. Corinne Gillespie of Cincinnati, second vice president.

DISTRICT GROUP TO GET RIDE ON WILLKIE TRAIN

Plan To Board Special at Mansfield for Trip to Marion Wednesday.

Plans for a delegation of Marion county and Eighth district Republican leaders and newspapermen to meet the special train of Wendell L. Willkie at Mansfield Wednesday morning and accompany him to Marion were announced today.

The train of the G. O. P. presidential candidate will arrive here at 11:20 a. m. and remain until 11:40 during which time Willkie will deliver a brief address.

In Marion Party

Marionites going will be Bud Lawson, Eighth district committeeman, Congressman Frederck C. Smith and Mrs. Smith, French Crow, Marion county G. O. P. chairman, and Mrs. Crow; Walter D. Moore, president of the Marion County Willkie-for-President club; Mrs. O. M. Young, Marion county chairman of the women's division of the Independent Willkie clubs; Prosecuting Attorney Paul D. Michel, William Kay Davis and Miss Edith Eibling of the Willkie committee; Grant E. Mouser Jr., chairman of a district Willkie committee for the legal profession; Charles A. Klunk, member of the Republican hotel committee for Ohio, and Bob Byrd, city editor of The Star.

Others from the district are Mrs. Willa Broller of Mt. Gilead, district committeewoman, and Rowland Peters, managing editor of the Bucyrus Telegraph-Forum.

More Delegations Coming

Since reservations for the trip from Mansfield to Marion are limited to a very few, it will be impossible to accept applications for others, G. O. P. leaders said. All reservations had to be made with Willkie's Cleveland headquarters.

Additional delegations to those previously announced were reported today. Mr. Crow said that groups will come from Marysville and Delaware, largely members of War Veterans' Republican clubs.

However, the bulk of the crowd of several thousand expected here will be made up of persons not affiliated with organizations.

The Willkie train will be stopped so that the rear platform will be at the west side of the Central Junior High school grounds where Willkie will speak.

Willkie Says Reckless Statements Endanger U. S.

By The Associated Press

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN ENROUTE TO SYRACUSE, N. Y., OCT. 14 — Wendell Willkie said today he was concerned that President Roosevelt "by a reckless statement may do something or say something that drives this great peaceful country into war at a time when it is wholly unprepared."

"We must, if we possibly can, keep this great land at peace," the Republican presidential nominee told a cheering audience at Schenectady and Amsterdam, N. Y.

"Taking this country into war when it is inadequately prepared is worse than betrayal of the country. It is just taking men to slaughter and to murder," he added.

On New York Tour

Willkie, beginning a two-day campaign tour across upstate New York, termed production the greatest need in creating a strong defense and called for the election of men who understand production.

In a statement issued before his

Marion Engineer Called to Active Duty with Army

Maj. Loring K. Warner of 336 East Church street, a member of the U. S. Army engineer reserves, has been called to active duty by the war department in connection with the national defense program, officers of the Fifth Corps area at Fort Hayes, Columbus, announced today. Major Warner has received telegraphic orders to report for duty immediately.

The report from Fort Hayes stated he will be assigned to the airport section of the constructing quartermaster's office at Washington, D. C., presumably in connection with the army's plans for a chain of military air bases throughout the country.

During the World war Major Warner was captain of Co. E of the 108th engineers and served in France with the unit. He has retained his reserve officer's commission since that time.

Major Warner is a graduate of Cornell university where he received a construction engineering degree. For several years he was an executive of the Marion Sand and Gravel Co. and for the last seven years has been on the construction engineering staff of the public works administration with headquarters at Chicago and Columbus.

Rebuilding Of Penney Store To Begin at Once

Business To Be Operated at Other Location Pending Completion.

Plans for immediate reconstruction of the J. C. Penney Co. store at 187 West Center street, partially gutted by a $150,000 fire Saturday, and the opening of stores at other locations for the sale of new and salvaged materials were announced this morning by building owners and company officials.

Fire Chief McFarland, after a tour of inspection this morning, reported that damage to the building and contents was "less than first expected." The blaze was confined to the basement and first floor, although intense heat scorched beyond reclamation women's wear on the balcony at the rear of the building.

Second floor space, given over almost entirely to storage of Christmas goods still in original cartons, apparently was undamaged. The fire did not break through to the second floor proper, the blaze being retarded considerably by the metal ceiling of the first floor. Sections of the metal ceiling were removed for inspection, revealing timbers and joist untouched by flames.

Pileup in Basement

Merchandise, counters and everything with the exception of miscellaneous items at the north and south extremities of the building tumbled into the basement as the floor collapsed. Today the scene was a hodge-podge of show cases standing on end, men's suit racks lying open side down and not many items recognizable.

Workmen yesterday began the task of salvaging goods and materials. It was being removed from the building and taken to temporary quarters set up at 215 West Center street. They had not, however, penetrated into the far reaches of the basement where in

RUSSIANS ADD MYSTERY TO WAR OUTLOOK

Soviet Forces Near Rumania Reported Far Stronger Than German Forces.

By The Associated Press

Russia's reported massing of Red army troops, planes and guns along the Soviet-Rumanian frontier posed a mystery today as official circles agreed the next few days might tell whether Europe's conflict is destined to overrun the Balkans.

Presumably the spread of war would arise from a Rome-Berlin axis thrust aimed at Turkey and the strategic Dardanelles.

The Turks, aided by British engineers, were reported "feverishly constructing fortifications on the Turkish-Bulgarian frontier."

Greece and Turkey were said to be closely cooperating, and the Turkish press defiantly reiterated a challenge that "2,000,000 Turkish bayonets" await any axis attempt at invasion.

Both Germany and Russia were strengthening their military positions in the area near the mouth of the Danube river, which flows into the Black sea.

But Russia's role was clouded with uncertainty. Two conjectures were paramount:

1. Would Russia, as Turkey's friend and with her own stake in southeast Europe involved, oppose a joint German-Italian onslaught?

2. Or did the presence of Russia's Red armies merely signify that Russia was preparing to share the spoils—as she did in Poland after the German blitzkrieg had crushed the Poles?

Foreign military attaches estimated that the Russian army and air force, poised less than 500 miles from the Dardenelles, was greatly superior in number to German troops now stationed in Rumania or enroute there.

Troops Clean Up London

In the battle of Britain, 5,000 troops with picks, spades, ropes and pneumatic drills began clearing up the wreckage of London after the empire capital's most terrible night assault of the war.

German bomber pilots returning from the attack said fires were visible as far away as the mouth of the Thames.

The raiders reportedly dropped a total of 771,000 pounds of explosives on London, Liverpool and other English cities in the last 24 hours, and heavy new attacks were launched this morning.

With rescue squads still digging in the London ruins for dead and wounded, a government communique said "it is feared that the number of persons killed and injured is somewhat larger than during recent night attacks."

At least 15 persons were killed and 20 wounded when heavy bombs exploded head-on against two air-raid shelters in two northeast English towns.

Today's "invasion weather:" Heavy mist covered strait of Dover, blotting out sea and sky.

Hitler's high command—while giving no hint of German plans in southeast Europe — reported Nazi activity for the first time in the vicinity of Britain's key stronghold of Gibraltar.

A long-range German bomber attacked and "destroyed" an armed merchant ship west of Cadiz, Spain, in the Gibraltar area, the high command said.

A clue to destructive chaos inflicted by RAF bombers against German objectives was seen in a reported broadcast by the German controlled Dutch radio saying 4,000 Dutch workers had been sent to Hamburg, Germany, to help in "reconstruction."

The London air ministry reported that British bombers, defying bad weather, pounded many objectives during the night—in-

TUESDAY IS 'M' DAY FOR ONG UNITS HERE

Marion Guardsmen To Meet in Armory at 7 A. M.

Co. D and Headquarters Detachment of 166th Infantry will mobilize tomorrow at 7 a. m., but unless you are directly connected with either of the national guard units or are particularly observing, you'll probably not even realize they're undergoing mobilization.

All members will be expected to be on hand at the Armory on West Church street at 7 a. m. Tuesday. They will not be summoned by the usual blowing of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. whistle, since it was possible to issue the orders in advance.

All are expected to remain here until Wednesday, when they are slated to go to Mansfield to undergo physical examinations.

HOUSING SITUATION AT CAMP IS ACUTE

Lack of Quarters for Men's Families Is Reported.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 14 — Dormitories of an abandoned women's college may be pressed into service to house families of Ohio national guardsmen during their year's tour of duty at Camp Shelby, Hattiesburg, Miss.

"The housing problem of Hattiesburg is acute," said Capt. Dane O. Sprankle of the 136th field artillery, member of a party which made an advance visit to the southern winter resort where the 37th division is to train.

"The city has about 18,000 residents, many of whom are Negroes," he added. "Only about a dozen desirable home localities were still available when we arrived, and those principally at substantially advanced prices.

"Chamber of Commerce representatives suggested converting dormitories of the closed Mississippi woman's college into small apartments to house about 35 families. This would still leave the housing supply far below the requirements of present laborers and the anticipated 52,000 troops."

Capt. Sprankle said quarters were available in limited numbers at Gulfport, 60 miles away, and Biloxi, 70 miles distant, although winter resort prices tended to make them too expensive for most officers and enlisted men.

"Added to this," said Capt. Sprankle, "was the uncertainty over signing a full year's lease when faced with the fact that a transfer might be ordered at any time."

SCHOOLS MUST STRESS JOBS

By The United Press

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — State school officials have decided that schools must "streamline" their work by taking on one more function. This will be to make it possible for students to get a job upon graduation. The new work will include occupational and vocational courses as well as guidance of students into paths leading toward jobs.

TAFT STILL WORKS FOR G. O. P. VICTORY

Senator Undaunted by Failure To Win Nomination.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Failure to win the Republican nomination for President hasn't daunted Sen. Robert A. Taft's opposition to the Roosevelt administration.

The Cincinnatian is stumping the country in a speech-making campaign almost as strenuous as the one he conducted in his own behalf prior to the national convention which nominated Wendell L. Willkie.

This time the Tafts — Mrs. Taft is helping her husband again —are urging voters throughout the country to support the Republican ticket from Willkie down.

The senator has speaking engagements that will keep him busy until election day.

While Willkie pushes his campaign mostly in the eastern states, Taft will be concentrating his activities in the middlewest.

The senator is scheduled to appear in Richmond, Ind., on October 22, at Indianapolis and Marion, Ind., on October 23. These visits will follow Taft's current eastern tour.

Mrs. Taft speaks at Rockford, Ill., October 14; Wausau, Wis., October 15, and Indianapolis, October 21.

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

by Rita Mohler Hanson

YESTERDAY: Lynn Britton, lovely American girl, just has discovered that her scapegrace half-brother Dick has, in effect, sold her in marriage to a Mongolian prince. Sherdock and Temu, friends of the Prince who are escorting Lynn to his court, have explained the mystic origin of the Prince and Lynn is fascinated in spite of herself.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

Girl in a Trap

LYNN regarded Sherdock with a sense of helplessness.

"Have you any recollection of your life with King Sron-btsan-sgam-po?" Sherdock asked.

Lynn glanced at Temu, unable to interpret the inscrutable smile on his face. Did he believe this stuff or was he secretly laughing?

"I certainly have no such memories," she said.

"Your life, the Prince's, mine, theirs," he nodded at Gersing and Temu and Chin Pak, "all our lives have run parallel before."

Contrary to a carefully educated skepticism, Lynn thrilled to the idea. Surely, the mystery of life is much deeper than any glib scientific attempt at explanation.

Sherdock continued, "Perhaps we did unwisely in dealing with your brother and now we have to pay for it in this difficulty with you.

She looked from him to Temu. "Why didn't this Prince of yours come for me himself?" She noticed a hesitation as if each man waited for the other to reply until Temu answered:

"Leaving his own domain is rather risky for a ruler these days, especially in this part of the world. The Prince has enemies; there are even certain powerful governments that would like to see him out of the way. He is safest in his own domain."

She held his eye for a moment. "You call that love?"

"We are not trying to prove anything now. You will have your proof of love when you reach Delun."

Lynn stiffened. "The whole thing is preposterous. I demand that you send me home at once."

They merely sat and looked at her. She realized there could be no hope of help from Sherdock who was wrapped up blindly in the desire to serve his beloved Prince and pupil. She held out a pleading hand to Temu Darin.

"Temu, you say you came to know American girls when you were in my country. You must understand how impossible this is."

His eyes had narrowed. "Do you wish to go back and marry your banker?"

"I do not wish to marry anybody!" she cried wildly. "I doubt if I even like the idea of marriage. It is all so mixed up with settlements and laws and material advantages and necessities and a sense of possession—everything but love. I'm no chattel. I'm a human being with rights and reserves of my own."

"If you married the Prince you might learn to love him."

"Stop it!" she commanded. "I've heard silly arguments like that before. The Prince is not the only man who wished to marry me because he saw that picture."

Sherdock interposed: "If you could only have shared my experience in finding the boy! He had been beaten and starved and frozen, but he was still undaunted."

"Many appealing little boys grow into strange specimens of manhood!" she retorted bitterly. "Look at my own brother!"

Temu shrugged. "Then let us forget it until we reach Delun."

"I'm not going to Delun," declared Lynn rising.

He came to his feet smiling grimly. "Sorry, but you're going to do as we say."

Anger and loathing and an inner sense of helplessness darkened her eyes. "You beastly Mongolians!" she raged.

White Ruler

"Sit down again please!" Though Temu did not touch her, she felt literally pushed down into her chair by the personal force of his words. "We have something more to tell you. It happens that the Prince is a white man and not a 'beastly Mongolian.' His parents were missionaries recently come from America."

Lynn's only experience of a missionary's son happened to be unfortunate. Her lips tightened.

"His race makes no difference to me. If I were marrying I fancy I'd be better off with a superior member of an alien race than with a second-rate white man," Lynn answered, rising to leave the tent.

Then she stopped, arrested by a sudden flood of crimson that had suffused Temu's bronzed face. Slowly a little smile deepened at the corners of her mouth. She gave him a second glance and he held her eyes.

"You are courageous," he said. "And you claim to be incorruptible." She turned and went out. Well, he was a superior man of an alien race, and she had managed to get under his skin. Could she stay there.

Lynn, left alone for the rest of the morning, had time to think. Naturally, the Prince would make Temu, a man with some white blood in his veins, his friend and confident. She could see Sherdock's and Temu's positions; they loved the Prince. His person was identified with their nation. They believed fanatically in his incarnation as their leader. His will was their law and pleasure. It must be good to be loved so deeply.

She thought of the Prince and his destiny with a sense of awe. He could hardly be blamed for believing what Sherdock told him. The reincarnation story was hardly less incredible than the facts of his own life. Born in America! Orphaned in the Tibetan wilds under horrible circumstances. Few white men could stand up under it.

Had his parents remained in America, he would probably have grown up to be a lawyer or a business man or a ditch digger. She wondered how he compared with Temu in character and worth and was willing to wager that the Mongol would prove the superior of the two.

Temu would not be an easy man to circumvent. The thing to do, she saw, was to accompany the caravan willingly so long as she must and escape when opportunity came. That the opportunity would come, she felt absolutely certain.

Mongol Table-talk

She went pleasantly and in a friendly spirit when the Duchess called her to their late afternoon meal. Her son, the abbot from the lamassery was present. Lynn noticed him now as she had not the afternoon before. There was small resemblance, except in weight, between him and the Duchess. The abbot was a fat young man who held his head down and looked up at one under slanting brows. Lynn wondered if it denoted slyness or merely shyness.

Sherdock was in high spirits. Somehow Lynn did not hold him as accountable for her plight as she did Temu. Temu was a contemporary and should understand her point of view. Sherdock belonged to the past generation. He caught her watching him polish a duck's wishbone. Mongols felt, she knew, that to waste meat is to esteem lightly the soul of the animal whose life one has taken to feed his own life. But Sherdock was a Buddhist and a priest.

"Buddhists of hot countries are vegetarians," he said, "but we worshippers of the highlands believe that we do well to eat meat. Thus we give animal forces an opportunity to be reborn in the form of human activity. Partaking of the flesh involves the assimilation of the psychic elements of the animals sacrificed."

She smiled at him mischievously. "Now you are duck, I suppose," she said, "or do I mean a duck is you?"

Temu grinned and entered the conversation. "It is probably mutual. What is Gersing?"

"Quail," Lynn answered instantly. "What am I?"

"We'll ask Gersing," he evaded and translated the trend of the talk to the Duchess. She entered the game immediately.

"She says that you are lark and her son is made of sheep."

"What's he made of?" asked Lynn pointing to Temu.

"It is the Phoenix Bird, paragon of excellence."

"I agree with her," said Lynn, as they rose from the table. "He is certainly a paragon."

Temu gave her a reproachful look and walked with her out of the dining tent. "We start very early in the morning," he told her. "Should you like to come for a short ride about the camp?"

"Gladly, if I may go dressed as I am and ride side-saddle. I'm too lazy to change." She glanced at her white, wool sweater over a blue dress.

"I'll have a horse blanketed for you," he promised. "But are you dressed warmly enough?"

"All the solicitude of a cannibal chieftain!" she jibed.

"Do you want to be loved for your wit alone?"

"Don't you want to be loved at all?" she countered as they stopped in front of her tent.

"Speaking of love, doesn't it make you like the Prince a little better to know his story?"

"It makes me like you a little better," she asid. "I wish I had someone who is as loyal to me as you are to him," she added hastily, noticing his baffled look.

"I am as loyal to you as I am to him. I consider you one."

"Honestly, Temu, do you think the Prince is as wonderful as Sherdock seems to think he is?" At his hesitation she cried triumphantly. "There it is! Sherdock looks at him with fond, parental eyes but you can't help seeing his shortcomings."

Temu spoke stubbornly. "Despite the Prince's shortcomings, I think I am doing right in taking you to him. As much as I believe anything on earth, I believe that your place is at his side and his place is the leadership of our country."

Lynn raised her hands in despair. "I keep fancying you ought to be different, but you're just another Oriental fanatic."

"I may be," he admitted with a smile that Lynn found as baffling as his Oriental philosophy. "Let's not talk about it any more. The wind is chilly; put on a warm wrap."

GROUP DISCUSSIONS ON GRANGE PROGRAM

Group discussions preceded a program at a meeting of Bethlehem grange Friday night. The first group led by Ed. Bender discussed "Better Insurance Service for Ohio Granges," and the second group led by Mrs. Oscar Kaelber, discussed "Safer Speed Limits on Ohio Highways." Mrs. Carl Russell presided as leader for Group 3 in a discussion of "Farm Trespassing Problems."

Peggy Grates gave a reading and Group No. 1, in charge of Miss Florence Almendinger sang several numbers. Mrs. Ralph Williams gave a reading. Miss Helen Strine was in charge of stunts and Group 3 entertained with songs and stunts, directed by Miss Marie Bender.

Plans were made for a Hallowe'en party in two weeks. Dan Hartman, field representative of the Ohio State grange will be in charge of games and the decorating committee will include Mrs. Oscar Kaelber, Miss Mary Mahaffey and Mrs. Ralph Williams. Serving as a refreshment committee will be Mr. and Mrs. George Almendinger and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Strine.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Oct. 15

MODERATE progress may be looked for in all business and workaday activities, judging by the mutual and lunar aspects bearing rule. Vital issues are at stake and may be best turned into highly successful returns by flexibility, bold strokes of ingenuity and a willingness to yield a point or change plans or methods where that seems advisable.

Those whose birthday it is may experiece a thrilling, perhaps hectic year, with vital issues coming to the front with suddenness and calling for quick decisions. This may involve some giving way from old established ideas, plans and objectives.

A child born on this day may have many novel, advanced and sensational ideals, with much creative ability and originality, supported by sound judgment.

A resident of Stamford, Conn., has invented a tobacco pipe with a flexible stem that can be folded over the bowl when the pipe is to be carried in a pocket.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A. P. B., Berkeley, Calif.—"Do vegetable juices retain their properties and food values if the juice is extracted after the vegetables have been steamed?"

Answer: Vitamin C is destroyed by heating, but only partially unless the heating is severe. Otherwise cooked vegetable juice has the same properties as raw.

Bewildered Mother—"Our newborn baby has a large black birthmark on her face. Can anything be done about it?"

Answer—Certainly. There are half a dozen good ways of treating birthmarks. But take it easy. Most new-born babies have little blemishes in the skin and most of these go away by themselves.

B. Z. H., New Haven, Conn.—"My gums are very tender. They bleed quite often. What should be done?"

Answer—Spongy, bleeding gums may indicate early pyorrhea. Treatment is first by proper systematic brushing. Use a small, stiff toothbrush, and brush every tooth, and between every two teeth at the gum margin with a rotary motion, beginning at the left end of the upper jaw and going in front to right end, then turning to back of teeth and brushing back of gum margains systematically across to left end again. Do same to lower jaw. Consult your dentist about possible pyorrhea. Emphasize fresh fruit, Vitamin D, milk in your diet.

K. K., Hoquiam, Wash.—"Can tuberculosis of the bone be transmitted to others through handling of articles that a patient uses?"

Answer — Tuberculosis of the bone has a sluggish activity. It usually appears as a primary infection in the bone—that is, without manifestations of tuberculosis elsewhere as a primary focus. For instance, there is seldom evidence of tuberculosis in the lungs in these cases and therefore there is no "open" source of transmission of the germs to others. For that reason a patient with tuberculosis of the bones is not a source of danger to others.

A. D. R., St. Louis, Mo.—I have been taking a lemon a day in a glass of water. I am told they thin the blood and reduce you. I am 70 years old, and want to know if one a day is harmful."

Answer: This sounds as if some neighbor had decided to take the joy out of life. If half the people in the world would quit talking half the time, half the trouble would be avoided. Certainly a lemon a day won't do you any harm, it will do you good, on the same principle as an apple a day.

Ketogenic Diet—Many requests have come in for a prescription for the ketogenic diet for epilepsy. In general, it consists in high fat and low starch: concentrated sugars such as candy, and desserts, are prohibited. Exact prescriptions cannot be calculated unless age and weight are known, and should be ordered by a physican. It is best to consult the physician anyway to determine whether the condition really is epilepsy. The function of this column is not to teache people to treat themselves, but to teach them what their doctors can do for them.

STEEL PRODUCTION HITS YEAR'S HIGH

Rate Goes to 94 1/2 Per Cent, Magazine Reports.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14 — Steel production last week shot to 94½ per cent of capacity, the highest rate this year and half point above the 1939 peak, the magazine Steel said today.

Small gains by individual districts contributed to the one-point advance. Youngstown went up 3 to 82½ per cent. Cincinnati at 90, Cleveland 83 and Wheeling 97 were unchanged.

The magazine said steelmakers are confident they can fill defense demands despite almost capacity production under present conditions.

In some instances only regular customers can place further tonnage and deliveries are being extended, though not enough yet to cause inconvenience. Some bar makers can promise nothing short of Dec. 1, but three-to-five week sheet deliveries are possible. Stainless steel sheets are as much as eight weeks in arrears.

Backlogs are increasing, but no hint of priority regulations has been heard and mills and consumers are operating on a voluntary selection on the question of public and private orders.

There has been no definite effect on the domestic market from cessation of scrap exports to Japan. Suggestions that scrap prices be pegged against further advances have not materialized.

Local weakness in heavy melting steel at Chicago caused a drop of 8 cents in the scrap composite to $20.54. The finished iron and steel composite rose 2 cents to $38.07.

Railroad activity is a strong factor, promising heavy orders through the remainder of the year, and automobile output is growing, with assemblies expected to reach an earlier peak than last year.

Steel ingot production for the first nine months aggregated 46,201,453 tons, compared with 33,535,012 in the correspo period last year.

Eckerd's Was Crowded
Response To Liberal Off

Scores accepted invitation of the Vendol Man to g FREE trial size bottle of his great Root, Herb an Alkaline medicine which he is introducing here.

Hardly ever has there been such a crowd in Eckerd's Cut Rate as was on hand last Friday and Saturday to accept the offer of the Vendol Man of a free special trial size bottle of this great medicine he is introducing in Marion. Vendol has gained a wide reputation for relief of many troubles when associated with constipation such as indigestion, "heartburn," gas in stomach, cramps, heavy feeling, acid risings, lump in the throat, dizziness, spots before the eyes, headaches, nervousness, poor sleep, pains in the back, arms, and limbs when definitely due to constipation or need of a diuretic on the kidneys.

Someone in the crowd remarked he didn't know Marion had so many people suffering this way; however, the reputation of Vendol has spread and many already knew about this great medicine, and some even had taken Vendol before, as friends or relatives sent it to them before it was introduced here.

Many men and women who have given Vendol a fair trial have praised it highly. People in all walks of life—business men, railroad men, factory workers, mill superintendents, ministers, farmers, and the wives of these men—declare that Vendol has given relief after other medicines they tried, had failed.

Mrs. Ella Nickler of Bucyrus, Ohio recently said: "I never took a medicine that acted so quickly or so pleasantly as Vendol. It relieved a bad case of constipation and then the dizzy feelings, gas in my stomach, sour, acid risings were relieved. I feel like a different woman since taking Vendol."

Mr. Fred Caris of Galion, Ohio, reports: "My kidneys needed a diuretic action and because of this every morning I would wake up feeling sore, stiff, and full of pains in my back and limbs. It would take a couple of hou limber up so I really felt doing my work. A few bo of Vendol relieved this by ma my kidneys act more freely now I feel as well as when I years younger."

The reason Vendol does so good is because of its fine mula of extracts of Roots, H and mild Alkalines. Some o well known herbs are S Leaves, Poke Root, Black hosh, Anise Seed, Aloes, Apple, Gentian, and other ones, which are mixed with uable Alkalines that help re the stomach when too acid. ingredients are mixed in the proportion to give marvelous lief to sufferers from the pa ular troubles for which Vend recommended.

If you who read this are feeling your best and will com Eckerd's Cut Rate Drug Store ask for me, the Vendol M will gladly explain all abou great medicine and tell you estly if I believe it will help No charge, so don't put it come today. Vendol is sol most all leading druggists.—

WOULD YOU CUT DOWN THE APPLE TREE?

You'll probably find a few bad apples in a bushel of good ones. That's the way it is with beer retailing in America.

There are hundreds of thousands of wholesome, law-abiding beer retail establishments that sell good beer—the refreshing, appetizing beverage of moderation. At the same time, there is a handful of undesirable, anti-social taverns. Unfortunately, these few outlaw establishments bring discredit to the entire beer industry.

To protect your right to drink good beer, the Brewing Industry wants such anti-social retailers eliminated entirely. It has instituted a "clean-up or close-up" program—now in effect in some states and being extended.

We'd like you to know about this socially important program. May we tell you about it in an interesting free booklet? Write: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

Marion Night Classes in Shop Work Expanded To Meet Unusual Demand

Additional Class Planned as Vocational Training Program for Adults Gets Under Way.

...proving employment ... capable shop work- ... the situations re- ... demand for shop ... night classes which ... week at Harding

...has been the demand ... Rieker, vocational de- ... coordinator, has an- ... schedule changes and addition of another class. Others will be added if more Marion men want training, he said.

The new schedule, effective this week, follows:

Monday night from 6:30 to 10:30—All students who were in the Monday-Wednesday night three-hour class. Some 20 students.

Tuesday night from 6:30 to 10:30—All students who were in the Tuesday-Thursday three-hour night class. About 20 students.

Wednesday night from 6:30 to 10:30—New class for men not previously assigned. About 20 students.

Thursday and Friday nights may be used later if the occasion demands.

Meawhile, in addition to the shop classes, two classes in drawing were started this week and have a total of about 45 students, which is over capacity.

All the night classes, both in shop and drawing, are under the Smith-Hughes program. The classes will run for 40 instruction hours. Others will be started when these expire.

Mr. Rieker reported that many of his night students already have jobs and are merely seeking to improve their positions, while others are bettering themselves in the hope of getting work. A considerable number of his students already have obtained jobs, as a result of the training.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Preparatory Work Progresses At Camp Site of Marion Guardsmen

(Following is an article describing Camp Shelby, Miss., where Marion's National Guardssmen will soon go for a year's military training in the regular army.)

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Oct. 12—For the second time in a quarter-century, Hattiesburg is getting ready to play "second home" to tens of thousands of Uncle Sam's fighting men.

On the gently-rolling "cutover" pine-land 10 miles south of here, the army is constructing quarters and facilities at Camp Shelby for more than 40,000 National Guardsmen who will come for a year of active duty.

Most of the guardsmen assigned to Camp Shelby are from Ohio, New York, Kentucky, Indiana and West Virginia. They also will come in smaller numbers from Wisconsin and Pennsylvania.

When the government leased Camp Shelby recently and annexed 25,000 acres of adjoining land, a string of construction contracts were awarded in rapid succession.

Hastened by enthusiasm, contractors announced that they needed men—that there would be jobs for 5,000.

Plenty of Applicants

More than that number came the first day. All of them couldn't be hired at first. But officials estimate most of them will sooner or later. Meanwhile, hundreds of them are living in hobo camps and makeshift dwellings near the project.

Hattiesburg's living accommodations already are taxed beyond capacity. The city foresees a business and building boom.

First of the incoming guardsmen are scheduled to arrive Oct. 15. That means living quarters and other camp facilities for some 9,000 men must be ready. The building program will be rushed until the vast city of soldiers can accommodate possibly 50,000 men by June, 1941.

Camp Shelby's history trails back to the World war, when some 25,000 soldiers were trained there. After the war, the camp buildings were sold to a wrecking concern, which stripped the site. All that remained for many years were gaunt cement foundations and a few deserted concrete warehouses.

Restoration Work Done

Five years ago the state of Mississippi began restoring the site for a permanent National Guard camp. Improvements totaling more than $500,000 were made, mostly through WPA projects.

When the national defense program swung into high gear recently, the WPA had just begun an additional $200,000 program on the camp. This was halted when the war department leased the camp and began its own building program.

The Illinois Central railroad has built three miles of sidetracks and is running six small trains daily to shuttle men back and forth between the camp and Hattiesburg and is planning to re-lay tracks which were taken up after the World war.

KENTON, O., Oct. 14—Funeral was held in Belle Center this afternoon for Mrs. Harry Botchlett, 37, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hesser of southwest of Kenton, who died in Antonio hospital Saturday shortly after she entered for an emergency operation. The husband, parents, four brothers and four sisters survive.

Plenty of Grit and Divine Help Bring Mike Back

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 12—"By the grace of God," says Mike, "I'm back."

And with the return of Mike Ondov to Hanna Divinity school of Wittenberg college another chapter in a stirring story has been written.

It is a pitiful tale—yet one in which courage, a will to live, and a faith in God are uppermost — this story of Mike Ondov.

Mike was attending Wittenberg in 1937. One week-end he started to Lakewood to visit his family. Near Mansfield there was a crash—another auto accident—and Mike was picked up "dead."

But a spark still lingered in his battered body. He was rushed to a hospital where Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity brothers and friends from the seminary gave their blood to keep him alive.

It looked as though Mike would live, but it would take expert surgery. The board of American missions of the United Lutheran church and church members throughout Ohio contributed $3,000. Youngsters in Mansfield and South Akron donated the receipts of a football game to the Ondov fund.

Mike couldn't die then.

The operation which relieved the pressure of three splintered vertebrae from the spinal column was successful to the extent that Mike now gets around on crutches.

Last year he returned to Wittenberg to take part in homecoming festivities. Now he is back to take up his studies for the ministry where they were broken off.

BRIDE'S PARENTS HOME SCENE OF WEDDING

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 14—Before an improvised altar banked with yellow and white gladioli, ferns and palms, and lighted with tapers held in two candelabra, Louise Liggett and Leslie F. Hintz exchanged marriage vows Saturday afternoon in the living room at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Liggett of Galion.

There were 60 guests who witnessed the single ring ceremony which was read by Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Preceding the ceremony, Veronica Kelley sang two numbers, with Mary Graham at the piano.

Smartly attired in a mystery blue wool street length dress with silver trim, the bride was given in marriage by her brother, Newton Liggett. Her only attendant was Alma Nissen of Bay Village. Louis Pumphrey of Bay Village was the best man.

A two-course luncheon was served during the reception that followed the ceremony.

Later in the day Mr. Hinz and his bride left for a trip to Washington, D. C. When they return in a week they will live in Lakewood. Graduating from Galion high school in 1935, the bride attended Miami university, and later graduated from Office Training School, Columbus. She has been employed as secretary for the Firemen's Insurance Co. of Cleveland.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hinz, Lakewood. He was graduated from Lakewood High school and attended Miami university where he affiliated with Sigma Chi fraternity. He is chief accountant for the Industrial Rayon Co. in Cleveland.

The Oct. 6 marriage of Opal Wingart and Camillas Mack of Galion, which took place in Greenup, Ky., has been announced here. The ceremony was performed by Leonard Smith, justice of the peace. They were attended by Betty Lou Jones and Glenard Wilnum of Galion. Other witnesses were Eva Walnum and Harold E. Sowers of Galion.

A wedding dinner was served to the bridal party and the guests at the Manhattan hotel in Portsmouth following the ceremony.

Mr. Mack will leave soon for training in Mississippi. He is sergeant in the National Guard.

Rev. Father William Pfeifer read the impressive single ring service Sunday to unite in marriage, Josephine Marie Pangallo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Pangallo, and Robert Glenn Faine of Galion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ray Faine of Cleveland. The ceremony was performed in the rectory of St. Joseph's Catholic church.

The bride was attired in white satin, a floor length gown with tight bodice and full skirt and high neckline over which she wore a gold locket. Cleora Pangallo was her sister's only attendant. The bride's brother, Pat Pangallo, was best man.

Following the ceremony, 21 guests were entertained with a wedding breakfast at the home of Mrs. Fred Essex.

The couple left later on a short wedding trip. They will make their home on Harding Way East in Galion after Oct. 16.

PARKING METER YIELD SOARS PAST $2,000 MARK

Receipts from the city 103 parking meters which were installed Aug. 2 soared past the $2,000 mark last Friday, City Auditor Elmer Shaw reported today.

Proceeds for the three-day period ending Friday amounted to $94.12 which brought total receipts to $2,052.19. The average daily yield for the three-day period was 30 cents a meter.

Mr. Shaw reported that thus far the city has paid out $721 for the meters, representing rental charges for two months. This amount will be applied toward the purchase price of the devices if the city decides to retain them after a one-year trial period.

Well, now that Japan has been added to the Axis forces, I see where they're getting Spain to take the fourth, or dummy hand, in their international bridge game. Schools used to teach us the world turns on its axis—but nowadays the axis turns on the world. Germany and Italy helped Spain to become a Fascist dictatorship—now the "Heil!" boys want a little return on their investment. Even so, it's strange that Japan and Spain have been taken to the Italian-German partnership. As some wit pointed out—successful firms don't need new partners.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian, Under the Guise of Nonchalance, Drives Home a Few Barbs to Spice Veritzen's Confession.

AT LAST Philip Veritzen wished an answer to what he was saying. Lillian and I realized that as he paused and looked directly at us with expectant inquiry in his eyes. But I found myself incapable of speech, for his admissions of the things he had plotted against Mary to prevent her marriage to his son, Noel, were so infuriating to me that I found myself choking with rage. I made an infinitesimal gesture to Lillian. She caught my cue and spoke quickly.

"Oh! yes, Phil," she said with carefully planned nonchalance. "Your delight when Prince Georges caught Mary's fancy, and Noel found temporary consolation in Olina was perfectly clear to us, as were your frantic efforts to keep those relations permanent. And when they sailed away together, betrothed, after a reconciliation between Noel and Mary, you were fit to be tied. But your nimble brain didn't stay idle long. You soon found a most willing tool in Avis Arlen."

The Avis Arlen Episode

At her naming of Avis Arlen, the mask of his face shifted ever so slightly, and he croaked hoarsely "Avis"—then was silent as suddenly. I wondered whether he was surprised at Lillian's knowledge of that long past and discreditable effort of his to push Noel into the clutches of Avis Arlen, or if he were wincing at some recent machination of his involving the slinking, slithery girl whom Miss Whitlock and I had so recently "kidnapped" for an hour from the hall of the Lansfield where she was spying upon Mary.

Neither Lillian nor I was yet certain about the person responsible for that espionage. Avis had first blamed Philip Veritzen, then taken the whole responsibility upon her own shoulders. Perhaps we should find out the truth before this interview ended.

"Yes, Avis Arlin," Lillian went on inexorably. "I confess, that did surprise me, Phil. At least, in wishing to have Olina as a possible daughter-in-law, you showed good taste. But to plan that Noel should marry a—a—well, Katie could best define her. She'd call her 'dot boonch of soup greens,' and flatter her with the epithet."

This last barb was too sharp for even Philip Veritzen's equanimity. He winced perceptibly, and broke into quick speech.

"I did not plan that he should marry her," he said explosively.

"Well! you certainly made noises that sounded like it," Lillian retorted airily. "And you surely kept up the good work in other directors. Planning to give Mary a year's study in Paris when you knew the betrothal of Olina and Georges had been broken, and that Georges was spending much of his time in Paris. That distinctly wasn't clubby.

"I'll have to slip it to you, Phil," she went on relentlessly. "You surely do a thorough job when you start out. No tiniest pebble in your path remains right side up. And then you had a change of heart, turned about face, gave your consent to the marriage, and were perfectly wonderful about it."

Memories Embarrass Madge

Philip Veritzen's eyes leaped to mine significantly, and I could have strangled myself for the burning flush that covered my cheeks. The memory of that night in my little study when I wrested the promise concerning Noel and Mary from Noel's father, and my motive was totally misunderstood by him, has always been a humiliation to me.

"You probably know perfectly well from Mrs. Graham that she alone was responsible for the change in my decision," he said sullenly.

"I knew nothing from her," Lillian retorted crisply. "But I have eyes and reasoning powers, and I deducted at the time what you have just told me. But the truth remains that you were perfectly scrumptious about the marriage until Olina came back here. Your actions since then, as you very well know, admit of two interpretations, the one of testing Mary, which you gave us at the close of that rehearsal, and another, most infamous, that you were trying to part Noel and Mary, in order to have him marry Olina."

Miss Eula Bricker and D. H. Glosser Wed at Prospect

THE marriage of Miss Eula Bricker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bricker of Prospect, and David H. Glosser, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Glosser of 477 Summit street, was solemnized at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Reformed church at Prospect. Open church was observed for the service.

For the ceremony Miss Bricker chose a street costume of teal blue velvet with which she wore a matching velvet hat and black accessories. Her flowers were gardenias in a shoulder bouquet. Her sister, Mrs. Charles Lawrence of Mt. Gilead, was her matron of honor and only attendant. She was costumed in a wine velvet dress, made street length, and a matching hat, and her accessories were in black. Her corsage was white baby mums and rosebuds.

Easterbrook Glosser of Cincinnati served as best man for his brother and ushers were Francis Glosser of Marion, cousin of the bridegroom, and Stanley Bricker, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bricker chose a powder blue costume, and the bridegroom's mother wore navy blue. Both wore corsages of roses.

Preceding the candlelight ceremony which was read by Rev. Robert Diller, Mrs. W. W. Wottring of Prospect played a program of nuptial music. Her numbers included a program of nuptial music. Her numbers included "Berceuse," from "Jocelyn," Serenade," "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life," "Poems," "At Dawning," "Estrellita," "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," "Liebestraum," and the wedding marches.

Mr. and Mrs. Bricker entertained with a reception for the immediate families and close friends at their home. Assisting in the dining room were Miss Virginia Wilson, Mrs. Newell Minard and Mrs. Charles Sechrist of Marion and Mrs. Tom Finefrock of Prospect. Appointments were in green and white.

Mr. and Mrs Glosser left later on a wedding trip which will take them to Washington, D. C., along the Skyline drive and other points of interest. They will be at home at 210 West Southern avenue in Bucyrus after Oct. 25.

The bride has been employed at the City Loan office. She is active in Gamma Mu chapter of Delta Theta Tau sorority of which she is a charter member.

Mr. Glosser is a graduate of Miami university and is associated with the Crawford Steel Co. at Bucyrus.

Another neighborhood family buys a good used car

Joe Brown: "Well, Jim, I've got to hand it to you—you surely know how to pick 'em."

Jim Smith: "That's just it, Joe—I can drive, but I don't know as much as I should about car values, I just relied on the newspaper."

Joe Brown: "What do you mean, relied on the newspaper?"

Jim Smith: "Well, Marge and the boys all thought we should have a car of our own—so we could take a few trips this spring and summer. But, we couldn't afford a new one and I didn't want to make a poor bargain on a used one. So Marge said to see the fellows who advertise and we can't go wrong."

Joe Brown: "How does that figure out?"

Jim Smith: "Well, Marge does all her clothes and household buying based on the newspaper ads. She says the stores who advertise have to and do live up to high standards. So she said any auto dealer who advertises is likely to be an O. K. fellow."

Joe Brown: "Gosh, Jim—having a wife who really thinks through things is wonderful."

Jim Smith: "Don't kid me, now, Joe—your wife's a pretty clever gal, too."

Joe Brown: "Yes—she's been 'working on me' for weeks to pick up a car like you folks did. What's more, she said the same thing Marge did. But I wanted to check your method first. Now I see, it's the same."

Jim Smith: "Sure,—just check all the used car ads—then take a look around and you'll find the one you want and can afford. You'll find all the dealers willing to help you, too. I did."

If you want to give your family a treat let them have a used car. Good weather is on the way. Watch the used car advertisements in this paper every day.

As Ohio Goes

OHIO and not Maine is the barometer which shows the trend of national politics. Records of 48 years show that as Ohio goes so goes the nation. Every presidential candidate since 1892 who carried Ohio has carried the country and the only other state which has shown the national trend in every election is North Dakota.

This makes the Ohio campaign especially significant and all the more so because this state is fourth in the number of electoral votes and might swing an election. If Hughes, for instance, had won Ohio in 1916 he would have defeated Wilson. In percentages the comparison is striking for in 1932 Roosevelt had 59 per cent of the popular major party vote in the nation and 61 per cent in Ohio while in 1936 he had 62 per cent in the country and 61 per cent in Ohio.

Experts who watch Ohio with critical interest find cause for Republican optimism in the state's trend during the last four years. In 1936 the state elected a Democratic governor and all but two of its 24 congressmen were Democrats while two years later in 1938 it chose a Republican governor and gave the Republican party 15 congressmen.

If Ohio does as well for the Republican party this year as it did two years ago Willkie and Bricker will carry the state and if precedent of half a century is not broken, this means that Willkie will be the next president.

It is small wonder, therefore, that both parties are making this state a battleground. The tremendous outpouring of voters to register shows to what extent public interest is stirred and all the polls show that sentiment is closely balanced between the two major parties. The nation's leadership for the next four years may be decided in Ohio in the closing weeks of the campaign.

The Shadow of Prosperity

SOME American industries have moved into the mild boom stage and the increase, pleasant enough in itself, is accompanied by the shadow of rising prices and the word comes from Washington that the government is keeping an eye on the situation and will step into action long before conditions reach the stage of the World war price boosting orgy.

The steel industry, barometer of industrial activity, is now operating at capacity with a growing backlog of orders, largely for American and British armaments and some bottlenecks have developed.

Washington has definite plans for holding some of these demands in check. It is determined that the rush for goods shall not set off a spiral of rising prices.

The armament is not the only one which is benefiting from improved business although it has set the pace. The workers turning out steel for guns and battleships are drawing larger paychecks each week which means that they have more money to spend for automobiles, refrigerators and all those things which have become necessities of modern living. This starts new wheels turning and the cycle of better times is on the way.

All this improvement stops when prices reach such a stage that the people stop buying and it is for the common good of capital and labor alike that economists are now hard at work mapping their strategy to assure that prices do not run so far ahead of demand that they will stall the upward climb of employment and production.

This Amazing America

THERE is an inspiring lesson in the self-sufficiency and the interdependence of the United States in the automobile industry which is now looking forward to one of the best years in its history. Nowhere else on the face of the earth do the people of one area contribute so much to the people of another and nowhere else does one section rely so much upon another for its prosperity.

Study the production of the automobile. It is centered for the most part around Detroit but there is not a part of the United States which fails to share in the benefits when the automobile business is good and the workers in each of the 48 states are affected almost as much as the workers of Detroit by its ups and downs.

The automobile is assembled in the great Michigan plants but it comes from the far corners of the country. The Mississippi farmer sends his cotton, the Arkansas woodsman his lumber, the Carolina native his turpentine and the New Jersey tanner his leather. Minerals from all the mining states, hides from the cattle ranges of the west, wool from the sheep ranches, soybeans from midwest farms, tools and parts and steel in all its forms from every industrial city all go into the making of the automobile.

Assembly plants in many strategic cities and salesrooms and garages in every hamlet and filling stations at every crossroads all share in the improvement which comes to the automobile industry. It is the living expression of a nation so complex and so productive that it can supply its own needs and in so doing can make the welfare of one part of the country contribute so directly to the wellbeing of all other sections. It is an example of America's unique greatness.

News Behind the News

Hitler Believed To Have Made First Big Error in Plan of Attack on Britain.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Hitler's air-krieg against Britain failed to blitz because he personally chose the wrong method of attack.

Over-confident after his conquests accomplished by breaking the morale of France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark and Norway, he thought he could win England by the same method. Instead of picking out British airplane factories, for instance, and devoting two weeks of methodical attack if necessary for their destruction one by one, he chose to conduct an air-fright campaign designed primarily to incite the people of London to change its government for peace. It was the first mistake he has made.

Paul Mallon

Only two airplane factories in England have been put out of commission by the Germans since the start of the war, and these were out only three to four weeks. You may accept the most authoritative word possible here for that.

The first campaign could not succeed (it appears clear now to military men in restrospect) as long as the British factories continued to supply British plane losses.

Recently published London figures suggesting that the German and British air forces are now near equality, are apparently far from correct. The ratio in favor of the Germans is still now nearly three or four to one. But this superiority is useless to Hitler if he cannot break the back of the British air force.

His losses are running three or four times as high as theirs. He cut the ratio down to one and a half to one during small intervals, but it has come right back up again. Fighting over hostile territory with mechanically inferior planes, he cannot hope to better this ratio much. Nor can he switch now to methodical bombing of British plane factories. The closing in of winter fog makes that work impractical

So he struck with a wrong-guess His air force is still intact. He has probably 16,000 planes which is just what he started the war with. But the British have between 5,000 and 8,000 and also are as strong as at the start.

The British method of warfare against Germany has been much more effective, although less sensational. They picked out oil depots and factories in the beginning and have bombed them systematically, avoiding the kind of wasted effort, from a military standpoint, in which Hitler has indulged in London. This edge can be pressed by the British through the winter as Germany is not protected by the fog which usually enshrouds England during that season.

By April British plane production will have increased to the point which should completely free her from the danger of invasion.

Farley Reneges

The new Democratic high command has tried to get its old general, Jim Farley, to make one of his customary election predictions publicly about a week or ten days before the balloting Farley's outstanding reputation as a prophet would have tremendous popular effect. Farley declined. He may issue a statement supporting "the ticket" but not the third term.

Corcoran Setback

It was Ed Flynn, the new Democratic national chairman, who trimmed the newly sprouted political wings of Mr. Roosevelt's ex-ghost, Thomas Corcoran.

Flynn heeded the inside complaints from Democratic state leaders and took a strong position against allowing the independent LaGuardia-Norris group in New York to take over the campaign there.

The matter is understood to have been carried to the President.

Polls

The private Democratic polls do not show anything like the Roosevelt majority collected by Dr. Gallup, the eminent pollist. The Democratic polls show Roosevelt winning but indicate the election could be very close if their workers decided to take things easy and coast in.

Such heavy majorities as forecast by the public pollist cut two ways. They attract a bandwagon rush but they also diminish the enthusiasm of the top party workers. The working politicos are not quite sure which slice is the larger.

A morale alarm is being sounded down through the democratic organization.

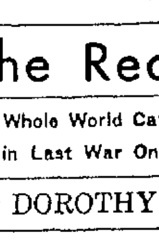
On The Record

Whole World Catching "Front Spirit," Known in Last War Only to Soldiers.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE last war—the long, last war of the trenches — developed something common to all the men who fought, in all the armies in which they fought. It was called "The spirit of the front." Those from the ranks who had the gift of expression attempted after the war to communicate it to the uninitiate, and we had a series of war novels: "The Case of Sergeant Grischa," "All Quiet on the Western Front," "Le Feu," "Farewell to Arms"—to name only a few.



Dorothy Thompson

The agony of war, the intimate sharing of constant danger, the community of nagging discomfort and physical misery, the continual revelations of extraordinary heroism—the heroism of a whole cross-section of the human race—produced a comradeship and sense of solidarity that had nothing to do with ideologies It produced a rough, realistic humanism. Those who saw the French film, "The Great Illusion," saw it revealed.

The men of the front were never able to communicate this revelation to those behind the lines. Home on leave, they felt a curious loneliness They were participants in an experience that they could not share, even with their wives. Even less could they share it with the men of the old generation, who had not descended with them, into hell, and found in that hell one single solace: the recognition of human brotherhood.

They Didn't Write Treaties

The men of the front did not write the peace treaties nor did they form the social order which emerged after the war. That was left to the older and the cleverer, to the politicians and the elder statesmen, scrupulously fulfilling the "aims of the war" as they had been set forth in documents or made in speeches, and distorting the stated aims to suit the exigencies of national interests

For the men of the front these aims had long since undergone transfiguration under fire. Their aim was a society that in some way reflected the greatest experience of that hell; the realization that the human race is all in the same boat; the comradeship of men who have been stripped of everything but the will to live; the rough, reluctant recognition of the sacrificial possibilities in the human soul; the knowledge of what really matters to mankind—brotherly affection and the simple things so easily taken for granted, health, and a warm dry bed, and cleanliness, and love; and children, and cooking, and the laconic word of some one who understands.

The world after the last war might have been rebuilt on the firmest of all foundations, on the internationalism of common humanity and common necessity; but the men of the front, although they were millions, could not be heard. Only the most gifted among them could articulate their experience. The new order had already been formed behind their backs. They were themselves a kind of order, but not one integrated with the rest of society. They had something to tell the world, and they tried to tell it. But they had fulfilled their role; each had killed a sufficient number of other men in opposite trenches, victory had been realized—or defeat.

For a long time they clung to each other in a kind of secret society in all countries. When they tried to tell outsiders—all those that had not been there—what they had found out, the outsiders, very soon, were bored. Their wives said, "You must forget all that, darling. The war is over thank God." Reluctantly they were reabsorbed into civilian life, where they were the minority, the outsiders. Only a few who could not be absorbed, for whom the war had become a way of life, felt intense hostility to the unaware civilian society, the sense of comradeship turning into a comradeship against society. They became gangsters and revolutionaries.

The "Front" Is Everywhere

Now, in this war, something very remarkable has happened. For the first time in human history the front is not in lines or trenches — the front is in the street, in the garden, in the city, in the village. For the first time the trenches are whole nations, and in them whole populations: old men and young men, women and children, rich and poor, kings and commoners. For the first time in human history whole peoples are being initiated into the spirit of the front. Whole populations learn the lessons of that spirit—the lesson of a common humanity, the lesson of what it is that really matters in this life.

The result is amazing: Somerset Maugham expressed it in a triumph of understatement the other day: "People are nice." H. G Wells, that acid commentator on man's weakness—on the race that "seems to have been given a mind only to go out of it"—grudgingly admits of his people, "They are rather noble."

Yes, that is the amazing revelation: The human race is a noble race.

Those who make the peace, when this war is over, will all have been in the trenches, all at the front—the front into which one is pitched from one's bed, or into which one stumbles in one's front yard.

And therefore it will not turn out, as the politicians expect, or as they who started it planned.

Face or Fingerprint?

That's Question Holding Up New Civil Service Bill.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Because the house of representatives insists that a federal employer has a right to see what he's getting when he takes on new hired help, one of the most important pieces of civil service legislation to come up in years, has bogged down.

It's the Ramspeck bill, which would bring into civil service more than 200,000 government workers not now classified.

The joker in the bill is a senate amendment which would substitute fingerprinting for photographs as a means of identifying civil service applicants.

Jack Stinnett

When it came back to the house with that rider and without a house amendment which would have forced the government to to hire workers from the 32 states which do not have their quotas of federal workers before taking any more from overquota states, the house went through the dome. It sent the bill back to conference with written instructions to the House conferees that the bill was not to come back without the quota amendment and with the unwritten but understood instruction that the ban on photos was to be tossed out the window.

Too Much Dynamite

The conferees agreed on only one thing—that the bill is too full of political dynamite to go tossing around before election and so, as they are doing with a lot of political dynamite these days, they put it away until November. For the time being at least, a federal employer still can see what he's getting.

The case of those who want photos was summed up by Congressman Ed Gossett of Texas when he said: "If this amendment is adopted there is no way of telling whether the prospective employe is white or black and employes must be chosen with no idea of their appearance or physical characteristics."

The anti-photo faction claims that the present system is a discrimination against Negroes and applicants who have retained that foreign-born look, although they might be Americans from way back.

The bill is deadlocked, but out of the battle came an interesting little historical item about the business of sending photos with applications to let your prospective employer get some idea of what you look like.

Not in The Law

The civil service law has been in effect since 1883, but there's nothing in it about attaching a snapshot of your map with your application.

In 1904, an 18-year-old country school teacher in Pennsylvania decided he wanted to get a job as a railway postal clerk. He wrote to Washington and got his application and when he filed it, he included a picture of himself.

"I just thought it would be a good idea to let them know what I looked like," he says.

He got the job and so far as any one knows, that was the first time the civil service commission ever got a photo of an applicant. They must have thought it was a good idea too, for on that precedent it became a rule.

When the Ramspeck bill was being argued back and forth in the house of representatives, there was in the thick of the fight one Congressman Guy L. Moser of Douglassville, Pa., the same who 36 years ago started this sending of photos along with civil service applications, thereby establishing a custom which in 1940 has resulted in one of congress, major squabbles.

Effort To Steal a Smoke Dur-
Intermission Inspires Thought on Futility of Living.

By DAMON RUNYON

WE are commencing to ask ourself, so what belatedly, in the various little si tions that regularly come up in life calling undue stress of mind or music: "Is it worth As, for instance, going out between acts at a N York theater opening to take a smoke.

For the benefit of those unfamiliar with New York opening, we will explain that it a huffle-scuffle of hundreds of ladies in cres cut down to approximately .14 Fahrenheit a sprouting ermine and sable and diamond knicknacks, and gentlemen in dinner jackets or tails, all somewhat flustered from hurriedly gulped vittles. They represent—shall we say the haut-monde? Well, yes, let us say it. We have no idea what it means, either.

Damon Runy

When the curtain falls on the first act, the whole passel arises as one person and begins shoving along the aisles headed for the exits. We confess that on those occasions when we were fortunate enough to horn in on an opening and until we commenced giving cal consideration to the question quoted above, w could always be found in there pulling a hauling with the rest

Our thought was to get out into the ope air to take a few drags on a cigaret. It is on fair to concede the same notion to the oth smokers, male and female But the non-smoke also move with the mob, and it is our suspic that the purpose of some of the ladies is to ma sure they will be seen. The others just do n want to be overlooked.

IT somehow seems to be our misfortune always get wedged in behind horses as th say on the turf of a steed that is unable find racing room. We are constantly gettu shut off just as we are trying to sneak throu on the rail or go to the outside of the ne

You know theater aisles are not wide, a the way the ladies are built nowadays ju one of them can block you off like the ba of a taxicab They all walk slowly and wi that little east-and-west hip movement th comes of the rumba craze.

One night not long ago we craftily wait until the lady in front of us swung her h to the loo'ard and then tried to rush throu the scant opening but she came back imm diately on the other track and knocked us in Mrs. Walter Winchell's lap. We think the la suddenly changed her timing through she meanness.

EN ROUTE up the aisles, the ladies and tho of the gentlemen with the more curious shaped skulls, further impede the progress those behind them by stopping to shake han with friends and to exchange greetings. "Hel Darling" (Sweetheart, baby, dearest, judg colonel, old fellow, old pal, old boy, etc.) "Wh did you get in? Where have you been? How your cold?" (Asthma, rheumatism, neurit headache, etc)

"How is Joe?" (Sam, Milton, Irving, Fredd Herbert, Nellie, Doris, Felice, Mabel, Sally, Vi ginia Collette, Nettie, etc.) "Be sure and c me up? Have you my number? Isn't it a love show? Isn't it awful? We are going to El Moro co." (St. Regis, Stork, Monte Carlo, Pierre, Pla Club 18, Riviera, etc.)

AND all this time all we want to do is get outside and have a few drags on pill That is all. A lady steps on our feet. A ge tleman disarranges our necktie pushing pa We get knocked back as we reach the door the press of people coming back in. The curta is going up again and we have not had ou smoke. We struggle back to our chair but lo most of the early dialogue of the act in the co fusion of the ladies and gentlemen re-seati themselves

We think the theater ought to permit smo ing in the seats between acts, which would sa them and eliminate a lot of discomfort amo the customers. It would also keep many of tho dames from catching their death o' cold goi outdoors without their wraps. A further, an of course entirely minor consideration, is th our plan would give the actors the opportuni of being heard, though at some openings w suppose it is just as well that the actors a inaudible.

Third Term Pitfall

(Editorial from the Cleveland Press)

To urge an alleged indispensability of Frankl D. Roosevelt as a reason for breaking the r third term tradition tends, we think, toward a abject and dangerous betrayal of American democracy.

It suggests partial surrender to the very form of rabbity popular acquiescence that helped pu one-man power in the driver's seat elsewhere i the world.

For this nation to assume that it has only on man fit to be its president would be to declare a poverty of electoral competence contrary to fac and fatal to the democratic future.

It would be a first step toward inviting the self-perpetuation of personal government which has been the essence of black shirt and brown shirt regimentation.

This is not the first crisis the United State has had to meet. Nor is there any guarantee i will be the last. There is always a crisis.

If a third term precedent were established, future crises, external or internal, actual or manufactured, would become pleas for continuing in office any president who chose to use for self-perpetuation the power, prestige and political patronage of the office.

The very nature of the present crisis—world-wide challenge to democracy—is the strongest of all reasons why American democracy should give resolute proof that it does not have to throw overboard one of the oldest of its traditions, thereby encouraging a world trend toward government by men instead of by law.

If the experience gained by a President in two terms should become convincing argument for giving him a third, then the same argument would progressively grow stronger for a fourth term, a fifth—and presently for life. To get away from that, this nation was founded.

Nor does a president's two-term experience ever eclipse the experience of other highly equipped Americans who have observed and studied the results of his policies and who may be more competent than he to hold American democracy to its true course.

Mr. Willkie's speeches, we think are now proving that.

Daniel Read, Ohio born and educated, became president of the University of Missouri in 186 Missouri's development from a second-rate university to a first-ranking institution paralleled President Read's tenure.

Read was born on a farm near Marietta a few years after his parents had moved from Massachusetts. He attended the academies of Cincinnati, Xenia and Ohio universities, entering Ohio university in 1820. He was graduated four years later with highest honors. Although admitted to the bar, he devoted his life uninterruptedly to education.

After an interval of teaching, Read was given a professorship at Ohio university in 1836, where he taught ancient languages, political economy and philosophy.

Residential Building Registering Marked Increase Over 1939 Mark

The volume of residential building activity under the federal housing administration's program during the first nine months of 1940 exceeded that of all 12 months of last year, Administrator Stewart McDonald announced recently. Mr. McDonald stated that the current rate of mortgage-insurance applications on new homes sustains his prediction of the most active fall building in the residential field since 1928.

During the 12 months of 1939 a total of 164,265 mortgages covering homes to be built under FHA inspection were selected for appraisal. During the nine months of 1940 it is estimated that around 165,000 will have been received, Mr. McDonald said. They numbered 161,0000 on Sept. 21 and were coming in at the rate of around 5,000 a week.

Secondary Peak Seen

Even more significant are the figures for the week ended Sept. 21, Mr. McDonald said, as they definitely indicate that the expected secondary peak for the year in residential construction is under way.

Mortgages selected for appraisal covering new homes to be built under FHA inspection for that week numbered 5,041, compared with 4,850 during the previous week and 3,298 a year ago. The last week in which such applications exceeded 5,000 was the one ended May 18, and there were only four such weeks last spring, Mr. McDonald pointed out.

4,296 Homes Started

New homes started during the week under FHA inspection totaled 4,296, compared with 4,058 during the preceding week.

Total amount of all mortgages selected for appraisal during the week ended Sept. 21 also was the largest since May, the mortgages numbering 6,596 and amounting to $29,270,000. This is the first time since May that the weekly volume has exceeded $29,000,000.

Saturday night there was a Dad's day banquet in Edwards gymnasium. The week-end of activities honoring the fathers closed with the second university convocation of the year at 10:30 yesterday morning in Gray chapel.

TUB LOCATION

A hint on planning utility rooms which is approved by builders as one of value concerns the location of laundry tubs. It is necessary that the tubs have at least two clear sides so that when a clothes basket, washing machine, or wringer is placed on one side the housewife may reach into the tub from the other.

CRASHES PUT 2 IN BUCYRUS HOSPITAL

Three Hurt As Car Leaves Road, Others in Collision.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Oct. 14—Two women are in City hospital as a result of week-end automobile accidents.

Mrs. Eva Lewis, 33, of Monnett, suffered severe scalp lacerations when thrown through the top of a car, driven by Ralph Wise of near Bucyrus, as it went into a ditch four miles south of here on Route 4 Saturday night. According to Deputy Sheriff Elwood Jacobs Mr. Wise said he lost control of the car. Mr. Wise and Mrs. Lewis' small daughter, Mary, were bruised.

Mrs. B. F. Hoover, 70, of Sulphur Springs, was injured about the chest when cars driven by her husband and Miss Mildred Schwab of near Sulphur Springs sideswiped last night on Route 598. Mr. Hoover was released from the hospital after receiving treatment for a head injury. Miss Schwab's mother suffered an injury to one eye. A sister, Miss Geraldine Schwab, escaped with bruises.

BEES WIN OUT

By International News Service

WILMINGTON, Del.—A swarm of bees holds a technical victory over Robert Silvers of Wilmington. Attempting to prevent the bees from hiving in the rafters outside his house, Silvers used a burning mop on the end of a clothes pole. The beams caught fire and three fire companies were called out. When the smoke eaters finished, the bees returned to the same spot.

YOUTH'S LEG BROKEN IN FOOTBALL GAME

Joseph Fabian in Hospital After Injury at Caledonia.

Joseph Fabian, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fabian of 379 Silver street suffered a broken right leg while playing football Sunday at Caledonia. Both bones were broken between the knee and ankle.

Fabian and a group of Marion friends organized a football team recently and yesterday was the first game they had played. According to a report from Caledonia, a group of young men of the community have organized a similar team. Fabian was injured when he was tackled by three Caledonia players, according to a report from Caledonia.

At City hospital, where Fabian was brought in the Timson Allen ambulance, his condition was reported to be good. A graduate of St. Mary Parochial High school in 1939, he is employed in the offices of the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

JIMMY HINES LEAVES FOR PRISON TODAY

Tammany Leader Still Protests His Innocence.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Still protesting his innocence, James J. (Jimmy) Hines, for more than a quarter-century one of New York's most powerful political bosses, left today for Sing Sing prison to begin a 4-to-8 year sentence for protecting the $20,000,000 gambling syndicate of the late Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer.

The 63-year-old former Tammany district leader, clad in a blue serge suit and wearing his usual soft, grey hat declared, "—I slept well last night. I'll sleep wel tonight and every night I'm in prison because I know I'm innocent and the truth will come out."

He whistled abstractedly, then broke off to add, "I'm not going to let this get me down. I'm going to take my medicine."

Then he expressed the "hope that Davis, Dewey and Schoenhaus will sleep as well."

"If any of them has a conscience, I know they won't," he said. "That's no squawk. I haven't been squawking."

Hines referred to J. Richard (Dixie) Davis and "Big Harry" Schoenhaus, two of his co-defendants, and Thomas E. Dewey, district attorney who prosecuted them.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN ON FARM NEAR CARDINGTON

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON, Oct. 14 — A barn, tools and a quantity of hay at the Frank Zerby home were destroyed by fire shortly after noon Saturday. The loss, estimated at about $500 is partially covered by insurance. The building was about half full of hay belonging to Rev. Oehler of Cardington, and the loss of the tools is estimated at about $150.

The origin of the fire is not known. The blaze was discovered by Mrs. Russell Fink, a neighbor who notified the family. Mr. and Mrs. Zerby were in Marion at the time.

there but they shall not come over here'."

Referring to un-American influences throughout the country, he declared the nation must not permit the principles of freedom on which it was founded to bring about its collapse.

"The fifth column is not new; it is just a new name for an old disease," the speaker said.

"They (the fifth columnists) should be taught that the right to enjoy our country does not give them the right to destroy it. They should be taught by forceful measures that the right of freedom of speech does not give them the right to destroy the spirit of our Constitution."

Referring to "organizations hiding behind the mask of religion, proclaiming loyalty to our country but refusing to salute our flag," Judge Matthias expressed the opinion that they should be "unmasked" and forced to show whether they are loyal Americans.

Loyalty to Flag

"A flag is a piece of cloth, the American flag is a piece of cloth that had become dear to every American because of the sacrifices it represents, and saluting the flag is just a way of showing our devotion for our country," he said.

"There is no reason why any organization, religious or secular, should refuse to show its loyalty to America by saluting its flag. I, for one, am glad that they (those who refuse to salute the flag) can find no place in Ohio to hold their meetings."

In concluding, Judge Matthias said:

"I believe I express the sentiment of all the people gathered here, of all your fellow citizens, when I say that the people of your city and county will defend our nation against enemies from within while you are defending it against enemies from without."

Other speakers were Mayor Russel C. Snare, Major George T. Geran, who was commanding officer of Co. D during the World war, Joseph Mills, one of Marion's few living Civil war veterans, and George S. Kleinmaier who spoke briefly and led a pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Members of the two guard companies were introduced by Lt. Walter E. Mathiot, commanding officer of Headquarters Co., and Capt. Hubert Taylor, commanding officer of Co. D. Both officers spoke briefly, expressing the appreciation of their companies for the rally and pledging the loyalty of their men in their defense duties.

Group Introduced

John Peacock, esteemed leading knight of the Marion Elks lodge, introduced leaders of the city's patriotic, civic and fraternal groups cooperating with the Elks for the rally. All of these men and women sat on the speakers' platform. W. C. Boyd read two original poems, "I'm Glad I'm an American," written especially for the occasion, and "Seven Days I Trod." Rev. Father William J. Spiekerman, pastor of St. Mary Catholic church, gave the invocation and Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, spoke the benediction.

In the address of welcome, Mayor Snare told the guardsmen, "We will look forward to your returning just as warmly as we now bid you farewell."

"We are entering a new phase of our national life and we cannot continue living in the next year or two as we have lived in the past, he said. "It will be very difficult, but we will have to make readjustments in our private lives, social lives and public lives to meet the emergency."

Major Geran congratulated the members of the national guard for their "splendid response to the call of duty" and expressed the hope they will uphold the reputation for courage which Co. D earned in the World war. War is a "terrible thing," and those who voluntarily offer to sacrifice their lives for the defense of their country "represent the utmost in unselfish Americanism," he said.

"What's in store for you," Major Geran told the guardsmen, "God only knows." "I don't want to be an alarmist but I'm afraid that before you get back to Marion you will have had to endure 10 times as much as those of us who served in the World war."

Civil War Vet Talks

Mr. Mills, who is now in his 97th year, gave a talk in a voice full of emotion. As he stepped to the speaker's desk and again after he had completed his talk, the crowd applauded and cheered.

"Today I feel that this nation owes a deep debt of gratitude to the fine young men of its guard who are ready and eager to defend our country against any foreign enemy and against anyone who does not believe in America," Mr. Mills declared.

He said that faith in our country "calls for faith in God," and he urged that America turn to God for assistance through the present crisis.

"Wherever you may go," he told the guardsmen, "I hope you will show reverence to your God, knowing that He is guiding and protecting you along the right and the courageous way."

Pointing out that the national guardsmen are being mobilized for additional training, Mr. Kleinmaier declared that those not actually engaged in armed defense have a duty-bound task to perform.

Calls For United Spirit

"For the strength of our country and the support of our armed forces we are called upon to stand unitedly together in spirit and in effort," he said. "We must be alert against those who attempt to create doubt in our minds or division among our people or disturbance in our industries. Often we have seen these things, masquerading as patriotism, cause the downfall of other countries.

"We have confidence that the aroused spirit of democracy can be far more powerful than any totalitarianism can ever be. We have faith that democracy can and will manifest its strength and power if all Americans — of all races, creeds and political convictions—accept the responsibility that citizenship in a democracy counts no sacrifice too dear that freedom may prevail . . . Our flag — the American flag— has never been blacked out and it never will be blacked out if we stick firmly to the job of protecting the nation against unfriendly designs from without and disloyal trouble-makers within."

Preceding the rally members of the Elks lodge, Marion Camp No. 32, United Spanish-American War Veterans and the Betsy Ross Auxiliary of United Spanish-American War Veterans held a reception for Judge Matthias at the Elks clubrooms. Judge Matthias is a former national commander of the veterans' organization. The committee in charge of the reception was Zed E. Gunder, S. L. Larkin, T. E. Kinnear, James E. Messenger, Elmer R. Bondley, John Monk, Mrs. John Monk, Mrs. Elmer Bondley, Mrs. Ray Anthony, Mrs. Carson Shetterly and Mrs. Eldie Mason.

ally planned for Oct. 6 but was postponed when Epworth church joined in the world wide communion service. Mrs. Dowell, who has served as communion stewardess at the church for many years, gave up all plans for the trip when the communion service was announced, friends said today, and began re-planning the trip for yesterday.

On Church Board

Mrs. Dowell was a charter member of the new Women's Society of Christian Service at Epworth church. Prior to the recent merging of all women's organizations of the church, in accordance with a new national program of the Methodist church, Mrs. Dowell was a member of the Home and Foreign Missionary societies and Circle 5 of the General Aid society.

A stewardess, she was a member of the official board of the church and was a division leader of the Powell Sunday School class.

Aside from church work which claimed much of her time, she was a member and past noble grand of Sosnowski Rebekah lodge. She was a member of the degree staff of the lodge.

Mrs. Dowell was born in Dudley township, Hardin county, on July 29, 1866, daughter of John and Mary Guckenberger Ritzler, natives of Germany. Her husband, Elonzo F. Dowell, who for years followed the trade of blacksmith, died in 1917, after a long illness. They were married in 1885.

Funeral Tuesday

A brother, C. G. Ritzler of 283 South State street, deputy clerk of the Marion county board of elections, survives with two grandchildren, Mrs. Robert W. Byrd of 211 Lake street, and Rod R. Sycks of Dayton and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Epworth church by the pastor, Dr. S. M. Ingmire. Burial will be made in the Green Camp cemetery. Friends may call at the Schaffner-Denzer Co. funeral home on East Center street until 11 a. m. Tuesday and at the church from 12 noon until service time.

COURT TO REVIEW WAR PROFITS SUIT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — The supreme court agreed today to review litigation appealed by the justice department in an effort to obtain a ruling on the federal government's power to regulate profits on national defense contracts.

Specifically involved were justice department charges that the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp. had made "unconscionable profits" on 86 ships constructed for the government during the World war.

The government petition said approximately $13,365,000 was at issue in the litigation. The corporation won in lower courts.

Earl Browder, the Communist party's presidential candidate who was convicted of wilfully using a passport obtained by false statements, was granted a high court review. He was sentenced to four years' imprisonment and fined $2,000 in the southern New York federal district court. Justice Murphy did not participate in the action.

Two kidnapers seeking release from the Alcatraz federal penitentiary failed to obtain a review of their contention that the Lindbergh federal kidnaping law was unconstitutional. It prohibits the transportation of a kidnaped person across a state line.

The kidnapers were Albert Bates, serving a life sentence for the $200,000 kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel from his Oklahoma City home in 1933, and Harmon Metz Waley, serving a 45-year sentence for the $200,000 kidnaping of nine-year-old George Weyerhaeuser in 1935 at Tacoma, Wash.

MARION CARPENTER STRICKEN SUDDENLY

Charles E. Wenninger Dies at Plant on Bellefontaine Ave.

Charles Eugene Wenninger, 49, 890 Uncapher avenue, died suddenly of a heart attack Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at the Betty Zane Corn Products Inc., plant on Bellefontaine avenue.

Coroner M. F. Axthelm conducted a post mortem this morning at the W. C. Boyd funeral home on West Columbia street. The investigation established that death was due to coronary thrombosis, the coroner reported.

Mr. Wenninger was a carpenter by trade, and at the time of his death was working at leveling off a table. He was not an employe of Betty Zane, Inc.

A native of Wurtemberg, Germany, born Aug. 11, 1891, to Gottlieb and Elizabeth Swartz Wenninger, he was six years of age when he came to this country. He was married in Crawford county on April 17, 1919 to Miss Zelma Morrow. They came to Marion 18 years ago from Bucyrus.

During the World war he served with Battery C, 14th Battalion, at Camp Taylor, receiving his honorable discharge after the Armistice was signed.

Mr. Wenninger was a member of First United Brethren church.

Surviving with the widow are four children, Mrs. Frank Stinehelfer of 209½ East Center street, Eunice and Eugene, twins, and Dorothy, at home, six sisters, Mrs. W. A. Watson of Davids street, Mrs. William Kline of the Waterworks road, Mrs. Roy Murphy of Oakland Heights, Mrs. Chester Goldsmith of Galion, Mrs. Fred Lewis of near Winamac, Ind., and Mrs. Charles Grice of Crestline, and five brothers, E. G. Wenninger of Galion, O. G., G. A., and W. E. Wenninger of Bucyrus, and E. P. Wenninger of New Washington.

The six brothers-in-law will serve as pallbearers at the funeral Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the home and at 2:30 at First United Brethren church. Rev. Carl V. Roop, pastor, will be in charge, assisted by Rev. E. M. Burroughs of Hepburn who officiated at the marirage of Mr. and Mrs. Wenninger. Burial will be made in Forest Glen Memorial park. Friends may call at the home.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Foreman of Upper Sandusky, former Marion residents, are parents of a son, Willis Vaughn, born at Mercy hospital in Tiffin Thursday night. Mr. Foreman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Norval Foreman of 313 South Grand avenue and Mrs. Foreman is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Hessey of Iberia.

Three babies were born at City hospital over the week-end: daughters yesterday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jay of 843 Uncapher avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller of Harding Highway-W, and a son Saturday night to Mr. and Mrs. John Sloan of 429 Windsor street.

MRS. LAURA SIMPSON OF WYANDOT COUNTY DIES

PRESIDENT'S APPEAL OPENS FUND DRIVES

Calls on Americans To Prove Their Good Faith.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Calling on Americans to "prove your good faith in good works," President Roosevelt appealed to the nation last night to support the 1940 mobilization for human needs, annual fund-raising campaign of the country's community chest endeavors.

The Chief Executive, in a broadcast, laid emphasis on the significance which attached to the attainment of the campaign's objectives in the present international state of affairs.

"When we join together in serving our local community," he said, "we add strength to our national community, we help to fortify the structure of our whole union. That form of fortification—that spiritual fortification—is not to be dismissed lightly by those in other lands who believe that nations can live by force alone.

"Human kindness has never weakened the stamina or softened the fibre of a free people. A nation does not have to be cruel in order to be tough. The vigorous expression of our American community spirit is truly important."

Mr. Roosevelt declared that there was need for "an intensification of our efforts" this year as never before.

Then, in another reference to international affairs, he said:

"Events abroad have warned us not only of the need of planes and tanks, and ships and guns; they have also warned us of the need of grit and sacrifice, of daring and devotion, and all those intangible things which go to make up a nation's morale."

The President spoke of the adoption of mass production in industry and the resultant problem of unemployment involving men of elderly and middle age. This problem, he said, was "too great to be solved by the good will of individual business men on a street corner."

WYANDOT CO. MAN IN ACCIDENT HERE

One of Two Injured in Traffic Mishap.

Two men were injured, neither seriously, in week-end traffic mishaps in Marion, police reported.

Cecil Derviel, 23, of near Sycamore suffered cuts and bruises when struck by an automobile on West Center street near Prospect street about 2 a. m. yesterday. He was treated at the hospital and released.

Witnesses told police that Derviel was crossing Center street from the north to the south side and walked in the path of an eastbound car driven by Roger Woodrum, 20, of 445 Evans street. He was taken to the hospital in the M. H. Gunder & Sons ambulance.

A. R. Martin, 67, of near Marion suffered minor injuries to the right arm when a car in which he was riding figured in collision on West Church street near Olney avenue yesterday afternoon. Mr. Martin was a passenger in a car driven by James L. Sparks of near Marion and the other car was driven by H. S. Racey of Agosta, according to a police report. Both autos were damaged.

Cars driven by Floyd Hawkins of Bucyrus and J. Heckert of Galion were damaged in an accident at West Center and Davids street Saturday night.

Damage resulted to cars driven by John P. Wilmes of 376 North Prospect street and Charles Ohls of 186 South Main street in a collision at North Main and Mark streets Saturday night.

Minor damage resulted to autos driven by Ralph Slagel of 650 Cleveland avenue and Ray Montgomery of 400 Mary street when they collided at East Church and Greenwood streets Saturday.

Tiny Radio Sleuth Helps Trace Route of Bellevue River

By The Associated Press

BELLEVUE, O., Oct. 14—A tiny radio sleuth's feat in tracing Bellevue's underground stream for three miles encouraged technicians today to plan further experiments.

In the watery depths of Seneca caverns four miles south of here and 160 feet below the surface of the ground, they released a small transmitter encased in an eight-inch rubber ball.

Henry B. McFerren of Tiffin, blind inventor of the scheme, and a group of radio operators followed with a directional resceiver on the surface the course of tone waves emanating from the electrical detective.

They followed it from 1:26 p. m. to 5 p. m. yesterday, northwest and then northeast until it took a horseshoe course. Lack of another direction finder made it impossible to chart accurately further. The ball was lost.

A group of radio amateurs from Columbus assisted McFerren.

Water surges through limestone crevices beneath nearly all of Bellevue. It rose to the surface in 1937 and caused a flood here.

Many attempts have been made to trace the flow but none has followed it through. One theory holds that it pours out of the Blue Hole at Castalia, 10 miles north of Bellevue but the source of that clear sterile water has never been traced.

Sealed bottles and dyes have been placed in the stream but none has ever reappeared.

Axis Powers Now Have Plenty to Occupy Thoughts

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

What with President Roosevelt's blunt defiance of the threats by the triple alliance against America, and the reported ominous massing of Russian troops along the border of Nazi-occupied Rumania, it strikes me that the trio must have hearty food for reflection—if indeed it isn't such strong meat as to call for the old bicarbonate standby.

The chief purpose in the recent formation of the alliance by Germany, Italy and Japan was to scare the United States and (so many observers hold) Russia out of giving aid to Britain. The reaction to this strategy of terror—which has been one of the favorite weapons of the dictatorships—has been immediate and undoubtedly not what was expected. At least it isn't what was intended.

Two Important Sentences

So far as regards the United States, Herr Hitler and his allies found enough in just two sentences of Mr. Roosevelt's Dayton speech to show them where we stand. The President said:

"The Americas will not be scared or threatened into the ways the dictators want us to go. * * * no combination of dictators of Europe and Asia will stop the aid we are giving to almost the last free people now fighting to hold them at bay."

Since the United States has refused to submit to threats and dictation, the next question which Herr Hitler, as leader of the triple alliance, is bound to ask himself is:

"What happens if the alliance forces America into the war?"

The great danger to Hitler and Mussolini (for our concern today is with the axis and not with Japan) lies in Britain's control of the seven seas—the blockade of steel which is slowly but steadily tightening about them.

Blockade Unshaken

The Nazi attack on England thus far has failed to break the British—and the blockade.

The answer at which we must inevitably arrive is this:

The axis would immediately find itself facing another navy which perhaps is even more powerful than the British, although not possessing quite so many ships. It isn't a question of troops or tanks — but just warships.

OHIO INDUSTRIALIST STRICKEN IN CANTON

Henry H. Timken Victim of Pneumonia.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Oct. 14—Henry H. Timken, chairman of the Timken Roller Bearing Co., died today of pneumonia. He was 72.

Timken, whose father developed the Timken roller bearing and a revolutionary carriage spring, was active in Republican affairs and was a substantial contributor to the party's campaigns. He was former chairman of the Hercules Motor Corp. of Canton.

Timken also was active in several banks, and was noted here for his philanthropies. His latest gift was the $1,250,000 Timken vocational school, opened here last year.

The industrialist was born in St. Louis, April 19, 1868. His father, Henry Timken, inventor of carriages and wagons, moved to San Diego Calif., when the son was a child and Henry H. Timken was graduated in law from the University of California. His father soon returned to St. Louis to start another carriage works, and the son joined the concern.

Because of transportation problems, they decided to locate near the Great Lakes, and opened the Timken Roller Bearing Axle Co., in Canton in 1902. The axle business later became the Detroit-Timken Axle Co., of Detroit.

Henry H. Timken was a pioneer in the development of electric furnace steel. The company's 100-ton electric furnace in Canton is known as the world's largest.

For a brief time Timken published the Canton Daily News. He sold it to former Gov. James M. Cox, who in turn transferred the newspaper to the Brush-Moore Newspapers, which combined the News with the Canton Repository.

Private funeral services will be conducted Wednesday, and the body will be placed in a vault in Westlawn cemetery, adjacent to the Timken home here.

ARCHBISHOP DECLARES NATIONAL UNITY VITAL

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14—National unity is vital to defense and is something that can not be obtained with a total armament of the most modern weapons of warfare, asserts Archbishop John T. McNicholas of Cincinnati.

Delivering a sermon before approximately 30,000 persons at an annual Holy Name rally at Crosley field yesterday, the prelate declared:

"We should pray earnestly that the loyal citizens of every group in our country will perseveringly make every effort to win God's blessing for national unity. Without self sacrificing efforts we shall not succeed. Without God's blessing we shall not succeed."

some places water still was standing six inches deep.

Cutler A. McGrew, store manager, reported his company immediately will open a new store and also a salvage store. They probably will be operated at separate locations, he said. He reported that sites had not yet been selected.

To Rebuild Immediately

Charles E. Merkel who with Dr. A. Rhu owns the building reported that architects are being called in to draw up plans for reconstruction of the building. He said work will begin as soon as possible and indicated that the building will be ready for business operations in about 45 days. He estimated that about two weeks will be required to clean up the debris.

Chief McFarland reported 27 firemen were on duty during the blaze. They laid 2,300 feet of hose and when the fire was at its height had eight hose lines pouring water into the building.

The blaze was brought under control shortly after 3 p. m. It was not until an hour later that it was quelled sufficiently to shut off the first of the eight hose lines. Firemen received a report of a grass fire in Vernon Heights at 3:30 and Chief McFarland dispatched three men in the chief's car to answer the alarm. The blaze, near Bexley avenue, caused no damage.

Firemen Called Back

Firemen were called back to the building twice in the early hours Sunday morning. They returned at 1:05 a. m. to extinguish flames which broke out in a stack of clothing near the west wall and again at 8:30 a. m. to quell a blaze which started in a pile of blankets near the east wall.

Six firemen were treated by a specialist when their eyes were irritated by smoke. They are John F. Cocherl, Harold W. Monnette, Charles J. McDonough, Theodore E. Brownlee, George C. Haines and Stuart E. Jones. Gloyd G. Lattimore, who became ill through the exposure to smoke, was confined to his home. None of the firemen was injured.

Several stores in the vicinity reported damage to merchandise by smoke. The damage, in varying amounts, was expected to amount to several thousand dollars.

Chief McFarland, who had been on his vacation and had not officially returned to duty, directed the department's efforts in fighting the blaze. He reported that it was through his own misunderstanding that previous newspaper accounts reported the arrival of new fire department hose, recently ordered by the city.

The chief, by his own explanation, was "just dropping in" at his office when the alarm was sounded. He reported that packages at the department led him to believe that the new hose had arrived, but that later he discovered the cartoons were for the relief center, but had been left at the department when the center was closed.

DEMOCRATS IN CAPITAL TODAY

4,000 Expected at Rally of State and National Party Forces.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 14—Buckeye Democrats threw their election campaign throttle wide open today with a statewide rally described by Ohio Chairman J. Freer Bittinger as the "most important" of the fall drive.

Party headquarters here predicted 4,000 persons would be on hand for the gathering tonight at which national and state campaign leaders, who have been acting independently, will appear together. State committee members, county chairmen and other party officials caucus in the afternoon.

Leading Democrats personalities on the program included: Charles Sawyer, Ohio national committeeman; former Gov. Martin L. Davey, seeking a third term; Albert Horstman of Dayton, state central committee chairman, and Bittinger, head of the state executive committee.

U. S. Sen. Scott W. Lucas of Illinois, regional director of the Democratic national campaign, was slated for the principal address of the rally.

Willkie To Return

Republicans, meanwhile, made ready for the return of Wendell L. Willkie to Ohio Wednesday. The G. O. P. presidential nominee scheduled appearances at Mansfield, Marion, Springfield, Dayton, Hamilton and Cincinnati. Willkie will pay Ohio a third visit Oct. 24, with stops at Warren and Akron. He climaxed his first Ohio appearance 11 days ago with a speech on foreign relations at Cleveland.

Willkie's announcement of a third visit into the state came a day after President Roosevelt inspected defense facilities in Ohio and enunciated in a major speech at Dayton his policy of hemisphere preparedness. Mr. Roosevelt returned to Washington yesterday.

Sawyer conferred with Mr. Roosevelt Saturday, but said later that "very little politics was discussed."

"I told the President I was quite confident that he would carry Ohio and that I felt the trend was in his favor and that everything indicated it would continue," Sawyer added.

Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes will deliver a speech "as political as I can make it" in Akron tomorrow.

Davey and his Republican opponent, Gov. Bricker, pushed on in their speech-making over the week-end.

Bricker at Zanesville

Bricker told a rally at Zanesville that he would continue, if reelected, a program which he said reduced state operating expenses $5,500,000 last year without new or increased taxes. Bricker and Mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland, U. S. senatorial nominee, also spoke at McConnelsville.

At Toledo, Davey reiterated a pledge to increase income for Ohio old age pensioners to $40 a month if elected.

Addressing an Ohio Republican women's club meeting in Akron, Mrs. Grace Reynolds of Cambridge City, Ind., vice chairman of the party's national committee, asserted that America was unprepared because "the President refused to delegate national defense authority to seasoned industrial experts."

Willkie's Ohio itinerary for Oct. 24, fixes his arrival at Warren from Sharon, Pa., at 5 p. m. He will leave 20 minutes later for Akron, arriving there at 7:15 and departing at 11 p. m. for Jamestown, N. Y.

MARION GROUP ATTENDS CONVENTION AT GALION

Marion Chosen for Spring Session by Luther Leagues.

Twenty-one members of Emanuel Lutheran church were among 158 persons who registered yesterday at the fall convention of Luther leagues of Marion and adjacent counties at Trinity Lutheran church in Galion. The spring meeting, the last of April or early in May, will be held in Marion Emanuel church.

Rev. S. C. Long of Waldo conducted the opening service in the afternoon. The address of welcome, by Harry Nungesser of Galion, was responded to by Curtis Rengert of Windfall, near Cardington, president of the leagues.

Dr. J. A. Dell of Capital university in Columbus delivered an address on "What Lack We Yet?" and Rev. Edgar Schuh of the Trinity-St. Paul charge south of Marion conducted an open forum. Music for the afternoon included an organ prelude by Mrs. C. H. Holderness, and a vocal duet by Rhoda and Marguerite Seif of Galion. Rev. Paul E. Dobberstein of Prospect was in charge of the closing service.

Last night Prof. John O. Lang of Capital university gave an address on "When Wit the Wise Foresaketh." Rev. E. H. Albrecht, supply pastor of the Galion church, conducted the opening and closing services.

Now For Spooky Hallowe'en Parties

This Witch Cake suggests a Hallowe'en party, but there's no rule against using it to dress up a family dinner.

WITCH CAKE

2 cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, 1¼ cups brown sugar, 2 eggs or 3 egg yolks, unbeaten, 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well. Add chocolate and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased deep 9-inch layer pans or three greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (350° F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Spread Seven-Minute Frosting between layers and on top and sides. Cut silhouette of witch out of waxed paper, tracing outline on frosting with toothpick. Fill in with a chocolate frosting.

Seven-Minute Frosting

2 egg whites, unbeaten, 1½ cups sugar, 5 tablespoons water, 1½ teaspoons light corn syrup, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Combine egg whites, sugar, water, and corn syrup in top of double boiler, beating until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly and cook until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from boiling water; add vanilla and beat until thick.

The hallowe'en season literally howls for a rollicking, ghostly party.

The traditional touch of witchery in foods and decorations always adds to the fun. Make your house—or at least, the dining room—look as spooky as possible, with grinning jack-o'-lanterns, scarecrows and witches.

A little silliness is good for relaxing in these days of tension. Here are some ideas for a spooky party:

Hallowe'en togs on Fig Loaf Sandwiches add a gay note to an informal function. Sandwiches can be made up in advance and they tie in perfectly with hot or cold cider, fruit punch, coffee or salads.

To make the loaf: Mix 3 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 2/3 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup chopped figs, ½ cup dark brown sugar, an egg, 1¼ cups sour milk and 2 teaspoons fat, melted. Bake in a greased or waxed paper lined pan in a moderately slow oven—about 325 degrees—for an hour. Cool, cut into slices and spread with yellow cheese and soft butter. Arrange sandwich fashion and cut into circles. Make Hallowe'en designs on each sandwich with strips of figs stuck on with butter.

Taffy Apples go hand in hand with Hallowe'en. Select firm, red eating apples. Discard the stems and stick wooden skewers through for handles. Boil in a deep pan 3 cups dark brown sugar and a cup of water until a fine thread forms when poured from a spoon. Stir in 2 tablespoons lemon juice and quickly dip each apple until coated. Dry on waxed paper.

Hallowe'en Puffs are new and can be made in short time. Beat 2 eggs for a minute, add 1 teaspoon each of vanilla and salt, ½ cup granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon each of grated orange rind and cinnamon, 3 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup milk and a tablespoon of melted fat. Mix the dough and then drop portions from a spoon into deep, hot fat. Fry like doughnuts. Sprinkle with shredded cocoanut, ground nuts or spiced brown sugar and pile in a scooped out pumpkin.

If you want Witch's Brew: Mix together 4 cups prune juice, 2 cups each of orange and pineapple juice, 1 cup grapefruit juice and ¼ cup lemon juice. Chill and serve in a cauldron—a glass dish in a black kettle. If you choose, top the brew with balls of orange or lime sherbet.

Bananas Rated High For "Protective" Food Value

Dear Friends in Marion: Crisp fall days and the promise of winter just around the corner remind the homemaker that it is time to think of "protective" foods.

Bananas, a year-round favorite, qualify high in the list of "protective" foods, because of their vitamin and mineral content. This fruit furnishes calories partly in the form of starch in the partially ripened stage, and in the form of sugars when fully ripe. It is easily digestible when ripe because of its high content of fruit sugar and its soft, non-irritating cellulose.

Food research experts have summed up the composition of the banana in these words:

Carbohydrate: The banana is high in nutritive value. Its carbohydrate content accounts for approximately 21 per cent of the edible portion, giving the banana a high caloric value. Because of this fact it is often called the food-fruit.

Protein: The protein content is low (1.3% of the edible portion) but is of high quality.

Fat: Its fat content is negligible (0.6% of the edible portion.)

Cellulose: The cellulose content is low (0.6% of the edible portion) and is a soft non-irritating fiber.

Minerals: Significant amounts of the following minerals are found in the banana; calcium, magnesium, potassium, sodium, phosphorus, sulphur, iron, copper, manganese and iodine.

Vitamins: The banana is a good source of vitamins A, B, C and G.

Bananas compare favorably with most fruits and vegetables in vitamin content. Their vitamin A value is almost as great as that of canteloupe, which is one of the few yellow fruits. Tomatoes and green or yellow vegetables (such as string beans and carrots) excel among the non-fatty food purveyors of this vitamin.

Rich In Vitamins

The vitamin B1 and B2 or G content of bananas is comparable with that of most other fruits and vegetables; since they usually are eaten raw, none of the content of these vitamins is lost, as is the case with cooked vegetables—when at least half of these water-soluble vitamins may be discarded in the cooking water. While bananas are exceeded in antiscorbic or vitamin C value by the citrus fruits, raw cabbage and tomatoes, their vitamin C content is by no means negligible. Again fruits, which are eaten raw, have an advantage over most vegetables that require cooking, as much of the vitamin C value of the latter may be destroyed by heat, or lost in the cooking water.

Tomatoes are an exception since their acid content permits of their being stewed or canned with practically no diminution of Vitamin C value.

When harvested, the banana is green and hard and its carbohydrate content (constituting a little over 21 per cent of the weight of the pulp) is almost entirely starch. During the process of ripening, the starch of the green banana becomes converted into easily digested sugars, a process analogous to that which takes place during the process of digestion in the body, when starches are broken down into simple sugars before assimilation.

The important point for the purchaser of bananas to remember is that even partially ripe bananas will ripen naturally in the home at comfortable room temperature (65 to 70 degrees F.). If they are green-tipped, they should be used for cooking, or placed in the fruit bowl (not the refrigerator) to allow further ripening until the peel is all-yellow or flecked with brown.

Cold A Disadvantage

Cold temperatures not only prevent proper ripening, but they also check the development of fine natural flavor. However, fully ripe, sliced bananas may be placed in the refrigerator for cooling when used in salads and fruit cups.

To keep sliced or cut bananas from turning dark, just dip the slices into these fruit juices, or sprinkle them with grapefruit juice (fresh or canned), pineapple juice (canned), orange or lemon juice.

Suit the color to the use! This is a safe guide to follow in serving bananas:

Tipped with green? The banana is partially ripe. The pulp is firm, starchy, slightly tart. Just ready to bake or broil or fry—cooking brings out a different, delicious flavor.

All yellow? Now it is ready to eat or cook and can be used as an ingredient in baking.

Flecked with brown? Now it is fully ripe, at its best for eating, infant feeding and as an ingredient in baking. It is sweet, mellow, thoroughly digestible and truly delicious in fruit cups, salads, milk shakes and desserts.

Not only are bananas an excellent food for all the family, but they are a surprisingly versatile aid in menu-planning, for they fit into breakfast, luncheon and dinner at all seasons of the year. They are an inexpensive, labor-saving and time-saving food.

Have you tried baking, broiling or frying the green-tipped banana, serving it as a vegetable or entree? Each week seems to bring and ever-increasing number of ways to serve these delightfully different cooked bananas, for they may be baked with or without the skin, broiled, sauteed or fried. Among the most popular combinations are cooked bananas with meats—roasts, meat loaves, hamburg steak, sausages, frankfurters, hash, steaks, chops—and with fish or fish cakes. As part of a vegetable plate, cooked bananas are interesting appetizing and filling.

RECIPE REQUESTS ANSWERED HERE

Banana Meat Rolls

Two cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup shortening, ¾ cup milk (about), 1 cup cooked ground meat, 1½ teaspoons chopped onion, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup diced bananas, (1 to 3 all-yellow bananas).

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening. Add milk gradually, mixing until soft dough is formed. Turn out on a floured board. Roll into oblong shape ½ inch thick. Combine meat and seasonings. Add diced bananas and mix lightly. Spread banana-meat mixture evenly over dough, being sure it extends to the edges. Roll like a jelly roll. Cut into 1½ inch slices and place into greased muffin tins. Bake about 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.). Serve with parsley or paprika white sauce, tomato sauce or gravy, if desired. Eight servings.

Note: Baked or boiled ham is a favorite in this recipe.

Cranberry Shortcake

It is time to think about cranberries—and to start using them. A tempting newcomer in the prolific shortcake family is cranberry shortcake. Here is the method: 2 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons shortening, ¾ cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, Ten-Minute Cranberry Sauce (see recipe).

Sift dry ingredients. Melt the shortening and work into dry ingredients. Add milk. Roll out and cut to make two layers for cake pan. Place one layer in pan, spread with melted butter, cover with second layer.

Bake about 20 minutes in very hot oven (450 degrees F.). Place Ten-Minute Cranberry Sauce between layers and on top. Serve hot with whipped cream.

Ten-Minute Cranberry Sauce

This recipe is a favorite: 1 pound or quart (4 cups) cranberries, 2 cups water, 1½ to 2 cups sugar

Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes. Add cranberries and boil without stirring until all the skins pop open (5 minutes usually is sufficient). Remove from fire when popping stops and allow the sauce to remain in utensil undisturbed until cool.

For a thinner sauce, just bring water and sugar to a boil; then add berries and let them cook until they stop popping.

Glazed Apples

Five large baking apples, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups water.

Core and peel the apples one-third of the way down. Place in a saucepan in a syrup made from the sugar and water. If more than five apples are used, increase syrup in proportion.

Cover closely and simmer the apples gently until tender, but not broken. Lift the apples carefully from the saucepan and place in a shallow baking pan. Pour the syrup around them and sprinkle liberally with granulated sugar. Place the pan under the flame of the broiler, or on the top shelf of a very hot oven (450 to 500 degrees F.).

The sugar will melt and glaze the apples. It may be allowed to brown delicately, if closely watched.

Remove from the oven, cool, and serve the apples in their jelly-like syrup, with plain or whipped cream.

Variation: Stuff centers of the apples with chopped nuts, prunes, apricots, or raisins.

Apples cooked in this way are fluffy, juicy, unbroken, and they do not shrink. The entire process may be done in the oven, using a covered baking utensil, but the cover must be removed for the final glazing.

Corn Pudding

Combine 1 No 2 can cream style corn, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, ½ teaspoon salt, mix 1 cup ready-to-eat cereal flakes, 3 tablespoons butter melted.

Combine mixtures. Pour into buttered baking utensil and bake 40 minutes in moderate oven 350 degrees F. Serves 4 to 5.

JAPANESE TIGHTEN HOLD ON SHANGHAI AREA

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Oct. 14 — The Japanese army closed off the Hongkew region from the rest of the international settlement tonight following two shooting affairs in which Chinese were reported to have fired at Japanese.

All bridges across Soochow creek, southern limit of the Japanese-held Hongkew area, were barricaded to all except police reserves, which were rushed into Hongkew from the settlement proper.

The shootings heightened tension in this complex international community, already made anxious by reports of renewed Japanese pressure on France and American and British disputes with the Japanese over distribution of authority in the settlement.

In one of tonight's two incidents Chinese were reported to have fired on an automobile containing Japanese.

Indications Seen of Rising Demand for Homes Priced Under $4,000-Mark

Indications of increasing demand for low-priced homes and of steps by subdivision developers to meet it are contained in the report of the land planning division of the federal housing administration for the first half of 1940, Administrator Stewart McDonald has announced.

The report, submitted by Director Seward H. Mott, states that 1,500 new and rehabilitated subdivisions providing around 180,000 sites for new homes were planned in the first half of this year by subdivision developers, in cooperation with the FHA, so that they would be eligible for FHA small-home mortgage insurance. This is a gain of 28 per cent over the first half of last year.

Rehabilitation of subdivisions by application of land-planning principles continues to be a large factor in development trends, it is stated. In many instances rehabilitation work has involved widening of lots for garage-attached dwellings and for greater privacy.

One-Third Low-Cost Homes

Approximately one-third of the newly planned subdivisions, providing around 60,000 sites for new homes, were designed for houses costing under $4,000, complete with lot, while last year about one-fourth of the subdivisions were for this price range, the report states.

This increase in both the actual and the relative number of sites for under-$4,000 homes being provided by subdivision developers results from efforts to bring attractive and livable homes in good neighborhoods within the reach of any American family with a reasonably steady income, Mr. McDonald pointed out.

"More than half of new homes of all types being built today are in subdivisions or other areas eligible for FHA small-home insurance," he said, "and I believe that the proportion of under-$4,000 homes is even greater.

"The average low-priced FHA home of today is an attractive, livable, soundly constructed house built by a responsible developer who has planned the entire subdivision, in cooperation with the land planning division of the FHA, to be a lasting neighborhood with all essential facilities and conveniences.

Parks Widely Adopted

Mr. Mott's report to Mr. McDonald further points out that the standard lot width for small detached houses in subdivisions having public sewer facilities is now almost universally 50 feet. It also notes the widespread adoption of parks and playgrounds, once regarded in some quarters as a waste of salable land.

"In planning neighborhoods," it states, "it is a demonstrated fact that open space can be provided through economies in design and generally without sacrifice of building sites. Open spaces increase living values throughout a neighborhood.

"The old lament that the community cannot afford to accept additional park areas because there are no funds to maintain them is poor reasoning. No good neighborhood can afford to be without public open spaces. Park areas increase tax returns and assure them for longer periods of time than are enjoyed by residential areas where provision for open spaces has been neglected."

MANY FEATURES FIX CHOICE IN PLANTING

Features which should be considered, according to builders, in selecting trees for landscaping are: Rate of growth, hardiness, length of life, straightness of trunk, color of bark, symmetry, Autumn colors, comparative freedom from disease or insect pests, general shape, flowers and flowering habits, fruit, shape and color of leaf.

PROGRAM WIDELY USED

The FHA home-ownership program was employed last year by families in 9 out of every 10 counties in the United States.

9 FATAL CRASHES RECORDED IN OHIO

Glider, Train and Autos Take Death Toll.

By The Associated Press

Nine automobile fatalities were recorded in Ohio over the week-end, as thousands of motorists took to the highways under a warm autumn sun. A glider killed one person and a train another.

Arnold Carson, 21, instructor and president of the Carson Glider Co., of Cleveland, was the air tragedy victim. Joseph Biro, 26, a passenger, was critically injured in the 1,000 foot crash.

Other fatalities included:

Cincinnati—June Cummings, 16, struck by auto.

Wooster—Drena Mae Johns, 3, fell from moving auto.

Columbus—Mrs. James L. Maugans, 27, in auto crash; Marion Vacca, 54, crushed by train.

Hiram—William Netz, 19, Hiram college junior, killed when automobile carrying students crashed into bride abutment.

Cleveland—William R. Rothkopf, 40, president of Meadowlane Dairies, Inc., auto overturned.

Toledo—Mary Ann Garlick, 13, struck by car.

Lima—Earl Sears, 34, of Los Angeles, car hit tree.

Painesville—Frank Logan of Cleveland, car collided with tractor.

Fremont—Clarence Matusak, 36, truck driver hit by a car as he crossed street.

SENATE AND HOUSE HOLD SESSIONS TODAY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Despite the absence of many members, senate and house scheduled sessions today due to the stalemate over recessing for the general election campaign.

The senate planned to meet only long enough to take a recess until Thursday. However, before that action is taken, the chamber may receive for confirmation the nomination of Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra as director of selective service.

The house, meanwhile, decided to clear its slate of several minor matters—provided it musters a quorum. The chamber was forced to adjourn Thursday because a roll call vote showed only 213 members present—three short of a quorum.

OBJECTORS OPPOSE CHURCH WAR STAND

Lutherans Take Firm Stand on Christian's Duty.

By The Associated Press

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 14—Conscientious objectors to military service, seeking church aid in safeguarding their convictions, brought their case before the United Lutheran Church in America convention today in the face of an executive board recommendation that "the Christian citizen is in duty bound to bear arms" in defense of his country.

Scheduled for thorough debate the conflicting views are embodied in memorials presented to the convention from the Central Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, and Rocky Mountain synods in behalf of conscientious objectors as opposed to the board's recommendations. The ministerium of Pennsylvania also offered a memorial in support of objectors.

The board recommended that while it recognizes the individual right to objection to war service, such recognition does not imply the church approval.

"We hold that a justifiable war not only may be possible, but that the Christian citizen is in duty bound to bear arms and to offer his life if need be in defense of his country," the board's report said.

"It is the duty of the Christian citizen to obey and support lawful government."

It proclaims the church's devotion and respect for the scriptural principles of the supreme moral responsibility of the individual conscience."

PROPERTY REPAIR PROTECTS VALUES

Banks Give Diversified Service in Financing Work.

The repair and preservation of existing property is as important in protecting real estate investments as title search, building plans, a sound system of financing, and other safeguards which originally surround such an investment, according to leaders in the home-building and financing field.

In commenting on the work carried out under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration, one high-ranking official declared that in rehabilitating properties permitted to lapse into disrepair during lean years it makes homes more livable, protects the original investment, and increases returns upon invested capital.

Performance of this financial service by banks fulfills a diversified purpose, it was pointed out. Pay rolls are created, building materials are sold, money is put into circulation, communities take on a more attractive and prosperous apppearance, and the investment of new and additional capital is invited.

Capable of a speed of 30 miles an hour, a cruising boat for fishermen built in California is supported by twin pontoons that are divided into watertight compartments, making the craft virtually unsinkable.

ST. MARY OVERPOWERED 12-0, IN LAST PERIOD AT FOSTORI

Irish Battle Evenly Three Frames But Yield to Final Drive.

By CHARLES HOSTETLER
Marion Star Sports Editor

AFTER battling on even terms through three periods, which closed with both teams scoreless, Marion St. Mary succumbed before a powerful ground attack in the last eight minutes of play and dropped a 12-0 decision to Fostoria St. Wendelin at the Fostoria High stadium, Saturday night.

Fostoria began its touchdown march from its own 20-yard stripe, Hammer skirting the line on end around plays and Bulkowski battering the forward wall off tackle. Longest run of the march was Hammer's 34-yard jaunt around end, putting the Fostorians 21 yards out. Two plays later Bulkowski smashed off his own left tackle for the touchdown.

In the closing minutes of the game St. Mary recovered a fumble deep in scoring territory and opened an aerial barrage from the 20-yard line. Terzo's pass into the end zone, intended for Ted Schuler, was intercepted by Tex Bulkowski, who broke away and ran the full length of the field for Fostoria's second touchdown.

Miss Scoring Chance

Marion's best scoring chance other than in the last minute of play also came in the final period. A pass interception at midfield by Ted Schuler, who jogged 30 yards before being driven out of bounds, put them on 20 away from the double stripe. Two line plays were held for no gain and a pair of passes narrowly missed completion to erase the opportunity.

Two St. Mary players were injured. John Robbins, center, suffered a dislocated right knee and torn ligaments. He was attended at the field by a physician and later taken to a Fostoria hospital for treatment. He was removed to his home here yesterday. James Daum, end, suffered a torn ankle ligament. Today he was attending classes on crutches and will be absent from grid practice for several weeks.

Only excitement of the first period, except for the punting duel, was the 50-yard field march of St. Wendelin, including a 42-yard jaunt by Smith. It eventually carried to the St. Mary four where the local Irish held for downs and immediately punted out of danger to their own 38.

Here Jim Schuler intercepted a St. Wendelin pass and another punt put the hosts back to their own 31. St. Wendelin lost on each exchange and from the Wendelin 41 the local Irish launched an attack late in the second stanza. Schuler slashed through the middle of the line for 15 yards for a first down on the 23. The offense bogged down and St. Wendelin gain possession as the closed.

Irish Try Again

St. Wendelin didn't get past midfield in the third quarter, the period in which the Berens-coached squad launched another ill-fated attack. From his own 41 Ted Schuler broke away for 15. Dave Rochford hit center for five before the St. Mary punt was downed within six yards of the St. Wendelin goal. Taking the return kick on the 36, Marion tossed three passes, then fumbled the ball on an attempted punt and St. Wendelin got possession at midfield.

On St. Wendelin's first play Ted Schuler came up with the pass interception being driven out 20 yards short of the goal, where St. Wendelin held for downs. They traded punts and St. Wendelin began its touchdown march from the 20. Trailing 6-0, Marion still was very much in the ball game, but couldn't connect with any of the pay-off passes. On the interception which led to St. Wendelin's second touchdown, Schuler was covered by three opposing backs.

Summary follows:

St. Mary—0		St. Wendelin—12

KICKS 92-YARD PUNT

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14 — Wherever the talk is of football, the subject hereabouts is Preston Johnston's thrilling 92-yard punt in the fading moments of Southern Methodist's 7-7 battle with Pitt. Propelled by the Mustang fullback, the ball sailed from behind the Southern Methodist goal line to just two yards from the Pitt goal. Scrimmaged from the six-yard stripe, it carried through the air to the Panther 35 and bounded the rest of the way.

Ohio To Open Duck Hunting Areas to Public Wednesday

Will No Longer Be "Millionaire's Sport" with Nearly 60,000 Acres Free.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 14—Duck hunting, long a "millionaire's sport" in Ohio, was only 48 hours from the masses today as the state prepared to throw open nearly 60,000 acres of newly-formed Muskingum conservancy district lakes to public shooting for the Oct. 16-Dec. 14 season.

An additional 23,000 acres already available to the public in state-controlled waters boosted the total "open-shooting" area far above the aggregate of privately-owned Lake Erie marshland, hitherto the mecca for waterfowl wingers.

The federal fish and wildlife service added another boon for the bird-minded shotgun toter by tacking an extra 15 days to the hunting season in anticipation of one of the heaviest southward duck migrations in recent years. At the same time the shooting hours were increased from sunrise—instead of 7 a. m.—until 4 p. m.

The new shooting areas, covering parts of 14 counties, will be subject to "supervised" hunting, with sportsmen checking their licenses at entrance stations, and retrieving them as they leave. No fee is required.

Making their debut for hunting are Dover lake of 4,992 acres in Tuscarawas county; Charles Mill, 3,908 acres and Pleasant Hill, 2,215 acres in Richland and Ashland counties; Mohicanville, 1,470, in Ashland and Wayne; Beach City, 2,172 in Tuscarawas, Holmes and Stark; Bolivar, 4,036 in Stark, Tuscarawas and Carroll; Atwood, 3,403, and Leesville, 3,499, in Tuscarawas and Carroll; Tappan, 5,073, and Clendening, 4,266, in Harrison; Piedmont, 5,550 in Harrison and Belmont; Senecaville, 6,591, in Guernsey and Noble; Wills Creek, 4,956 in Coshocton, Muskingum and Guernsey, and Mohawk, 7,235, in Coshocton and Knox.

The full season covers ducks, geese, brant, coot and jacksnipe, with rails and gallinules available for shooting Sept. 1-Nov. 30, and woodcock Oct. 10-24. Ross' geese, swan, woodcuck, greater and lesser yellowlegs, blackbellied and golden plover may not be taken or possessed at any time.

The daily duck bag limit is 10, with not more than three each or in the aggregate of canvassback, redhead, bufflehead or ruddy. The possession limit is 20 after the first day, with not more than six of the specified species.

Geese and brant may be taken three a day with a possession limit of six; rails, gallinules, jacksnipe and sora, 15 a day and 15 in possession; coot, 25 and 25; woodcock, four and eight.

The programs will include music, magic, theatrics and an evening with a government ranger who will relate his experiences. Programs will be presented on consecutive Monday nights in the Bucyrus High school auditorium, closing Nov. 11 when the famous Broadway comedy, "The Big Pond," will be offered by the Wells Players.

FORMER DUNKIRK MAN GIVES $635,000 TO SCHOOL

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 14—The will of the late Dr. J. S. Appleman, former Dunkirk resident who died last month in his Chicago home, left $635,000 to Northwestern university, according to a message received by Mrs. T. C. Mahon of Kenton, long a friend of the Appleman family. His beautiful home on Sheridan road, near Chicago, also was left to the university.

BIG TEN RACE LOOKS LIKE FAMILY BRAWL

Ohio State Upset, 6-3; Purdue Loses, 20-7.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—The football situation in the Western Conference this week-end will resemble a good, old fashioned family brawl more than anything else.

Minnesota, idle last week, will be primed for the pivotal test with Ohio State. The Bucks were on their way to a 3-0 decision over Northwestern last Saturday when a pass deep in Ohio's territory was intercepted, paving the way for the Wildcat's game winning touchdown. Bill De Correvont scored the six-pointer.

Southern California outlasted Bob Zuppke's Illini, 13 to 7, while Tommy Harmon and Michigan were romping over Harvard, 26-0. Harmon accounted for 20 points, giving him 69 for three games.

Whether he can run wild against the Illini which halted him a year ago is the lure that is expected to draw an immense crowd to Ann Arbor for their next meeting Saturday.

Iowa whipped Wisconsin, 30 to 12, after a blocked kick broke a 12-12 stalemate. The Hawks invade Bloomington for a shot at Indiana this week while Wisconsin is entertaining Northwestern.

Nebraska defeated Indiana, 13 to 7, while the other Hoosier entry in the conference, Purdue, was taking a beating from Michigan State, 20-7. The Boilermakers are not scheduled this week.

UPPER SANDUSKY LOSES TO TIFFIN CALVERT

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Oct. 14—Upper Sandusky Rams dropped a 21-13 decision to Tiffin Calvert on the victors' field Saturday afternoon. Russell Wolfe scored both Ram touchdowns. The first came on a five-yard plunge in the opening period and the other on a final period play that netted a 63-yard gain when Wolfe received a pass from Robey. The summary:

U. Sandusky—13		Calvert—21
Stemmer	LE	Marinis
Dardinger	LT	Cobaugh
Lucas	LG	Wagner
Robey	C	Diringer
Stephan	RG	Werling
Miner	RT	Colatruglio
Iles	RE	Stevenson
Beidelschies	QB	DeRose

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Oct. 14—Rev. Donald E. Syler, pastor of the Marengo Methodist church, has been appointed to have charge of the sixteenth annual Prince of Peace declamation in Morrow county contests.

Boys and girls from 14 to 18 are eligible and elimination events will probably be held in at least eight Morrow county churches before the county contest is held. The local competition to qualify for the county contest must be completed by Nov. 10.

The county winners will be eligible for competition in district events.

YOUNGSTOWN PLAYER LEADS OHIO SCORING

Aiello Runs Up 37 Points To Set Pace.

By The Associated Press
By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14 — The boys whi carry the mail for "Dear Old Backwash" are having themselves a time this fall on Ohio's collegiate gridirons.

Tony Aiello, Youngstown's shifty halfback, is drum-majoring the touchdown parade with 37 points, the result of six touchdowns and an extra point.

Deadlocked in the runner-up spot are Mittiga of Kent State, leader in the Ohio-wide standings with four straight conquests; Fenton Wolfe of Heidelberg's Ohio Conference top-placers, and Marty Vardaro of Youngstown, each with 30 points.

Charley Maag, Ohio State's huge tackle, is in a class by himself in the place-kicking realm, with three three-pointers in three games.

A total of 169 Buckeye collegians have banged into the scoring list during the infant season. Top scorers are:

Player	College	TD	PAT	TP
Aiello,	Youngstown	6	1	37
Wolfe,	Heidelberg	5	0	30
Vardaro,	Youngstown	4	6	30
Mittiga,	Kent State	5	0	30

Football Muddle Cleari

This Week's Games Should Just About Tell Tops for 1940.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Football fans should know a lot more about where their favorite teams belong in the national picture by this time next week.

October's first two Saturdays have helped sift out the weak ones and next Saturday's schedule should help the job along.

The best prospects now for title awards appear to be these:

East: Cornell, Pennsylvania, Boston college, Georgetown and Villanova.

Midwest — Michigan, Northwestern, Minnesota in the Big Ten; Nebraska and Missouri in the Big Six, and Notre Dame.

South: Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama in the Southeastern Conference; Clemson and Duke in the Southern and n"ipdeeendn in the Southern and "independent" Virginia.

Southwest: Texas Aggies, Texas and Rice.

Rocky Mountain: Utah and Colorado.

Pacific Coast: Stanford, Washington and Washington State.

No Weakness

Cornell's 45-0 victory over Army marked it as a team without a real weakness. Next Saturday Cornell meets Syracuse, which bounced back from a defeat by Northwestern to wallop New York university 47-13. Penn also gave an amazing performance in handing Yale it worst defeat, 50-7. Princeton was downed 12-6 by Navy.

Fordham showed promise in walloping Tulane 20-7 and Boston college followed form in whipping Temple 33-20. Pitt played a 7-7 tie with Southern Methodist.

The intersectional list sends Boston college against thrice-beaten Idaho; Colgate, 20-3 victor over Brown against Duke; Columbia, 20-6 winner over Dartmouth, against Georgia, Navy against Drake; and Temple against Michigan State. Playing on foreign fields, Villanova meets Baylor; Duquesne's unbeaten team meets Mississippi, Southeastern Conference leader; Carnegie Tech, beaten 21-0 by Holy Cross, visits Notre Dame and George Washington, 20-14 winner over Washington and Lee, plays Kentucky.

Harward was a 26-0 b Michigan and Tommy while Northwestern c Ohio State 6-3. Iowa b consin 30-12. All thr tough conference assignm week. Michigan plays which lost a 13-7 dec Southern California. WRESTLING ANNIVERSARY PROGRAM SET TONIGHT

Marion's wrestling industry celebrates its tenth birthday tonight at the Marion Steam Shovel arena and promoters are planning to make the event a gala affair.

They've billed the show as a "ladies' night" with all women admitted without charge and they are offering a so-called "championship" fight.

Jules LaRance, who claims the junior heavyweight crown, will defend it against Gil Knutson in a 90-minute bout. Both are Canadians. Another 90-minute duel will match Jimmy Lott and Dick Trout, while the 20-minute curtain-raiser will bring together Lefty Pacer and Ned Taylor. The show opens at 8:30.

The film was made from Elizabeth Page's best-selling novel, "The Tree of Liberty."

The supporting bill is excellent. Donald Duck, Pluto and a powerflying bumble bee have their troubles in "The Window Washer." The newsreel presents five candidates for President, including Browder the Communist who got a lusty boo from some place in the dinner-hour audience last evening. An interesting short shows the process of making glasses lenses. Recommended bill for young and old. H H

FREEZING WEATHER ON WAY OVER MID-WEST

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—The coldest weather so far this season brought freezing weather to the north central states today.

Forecaster G E Dunn said the cold air mass was moving rapidly eastward, having passed Omaha and Des Moines this morning, and would produce frost, ranging from light to killing, in virtually all of the eight-state region tonight.

He said it would continue on to the east coast and probably bring frost as far south as the Ohio river tomorrow.

In Omaha today the mercury dropped from 70 at midnight to [illegible]2 at 6 30 a m and Dunn predicted a low of 42 for Chicago tonight.

NEWSMAN APPOINTED MINNESOTA SENATOR

By The Associated Press

ST PAUL Minn., Oct. 14—Joseph H Ball, 34-year-old political reporter for the St Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press, morning and evening newspapers, was appointed today by Gov Harold Stassen to the United States senate to succeed the late Sen Ernest Lundeen.

Ball is a Republican, like the governor. Senator Lundeen was a Farmer-Laborite and the Republicans thus gain another seat in the upper house. Minnesota's other senator, Henrik Shipstead, is a Republican. Lundeen was killed in an air crash near Washington Aug 31.

The youthful Ball, a tall lean man with heavy black hair, father of three children and a reporter since 1927, has long been an intimate friend of the governor. He has been reporting politics since 1934.

AMERICANS PREPARE TO FLEE FROM ORIENT

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Oct 14 — A large contingent of Americans booked passage for home today on the Nitta Maru, which sails Saturday, as the American exodus from the orient continued under the advise of the U S state department.

A large group of wives and children already is on the high seas, headed for home, and the state department's announced intention to send special liners to remove other Americans caused a fresh wave of consternation in official circles here.

The foreign office spokesman, reversing his usual role, questioned American newspapermen closely at his press conference regarding the number of nationals leaving, but made no comment.

GOV. STASSEN DEMANDS APOLOGY FROM FLYNN

Charges Democratic Booklet Slurs Minnesota.

By The Associated Press

ST PAUL, Minn., Oct. 14—Gov. Harold Stassen, in a telegram to Edward J Flynn, chairman of the Democratic committee, demanded an apology today to the state of Minnesota "for slurs upon the patriotism of the people * * *."

The governor charged that in a pamphlet "of your Negro division" Minnesota is referred to as the German state of the union'."

'The people of Minnesota, in their ancestry, are sons and daughters of every nation in the world and they are loyal and patriotic citizens who love the United States and will defend it against all dangers," Stassen said in his telegram. He referred to the military service of Minnesota men in the Civil, Spanish-American and World wars and added:

"We practice tolerance and the rights of all minorities are respected."

All Officers Reelected at Meeting of Harding Memorial Association

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer Again President: Attendance of Members for 18th Annual Session Largest in Years.

All officers of the Harding Memorial association were reelected today at the eighteenth annual meeting of the trustees, following a meeting of the association members at Hotel Harding.

Former President Herbert Hoover was renamed honorary president along with the following active officers:

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, president; French Crow, first vice president; C B King, second vice president; Bennett Bindley, third vice president; Ray R. King, treasurer; Alfred Donithen, secretary and assistant treasurer.

Large Attendance

The meeting had the largest attendance of any in recent years, 17 of the 42 association members being present for the luncheon and business session.

Various reports were given, including the treasurer's report by C W. Smoot, Marion auditor, which showed the association had a cash balance of $18,402 on Sept 30 and an investment in bonds valued at $183,230. The value of the memorial was placed at $778,509 and the home and museum at $13,517.

Cash receipts of the association during the year from Oct 1, 1939 to Sept. 30, 1940 were placed at $6,390 56, mostly coming from interest on bonds. Operating costs were $3,752 22 and administrative costs $360 08.

At the home and museum, J Fred Dombaugh, manager, reported there were 1,615 paid admissions amounting to $390 50. In the previous year there were 2,075 paid, amounting to $435 57. However, the number of free admissions during the last year was larger than usual because of new policies.

Despite the decrease in admissions the revenue was about the same as the preceding year. Souvenir sales also helped the revenue.

Report on Admissions

Mr Dombaugh reported there were 1,429 free admissions, including 600 or more Boy Scouts, 208 Girl Scouts, 523 school children, and 75 persons connected with last summer's Elks' pilgrimage.

In this connection Dr. Sawyer commented that three groups are now using the memorial for special occasions and suggested that if this could be increased to eight or 10 groups a year it would be beneficial to the community and to the memorial's purposes.

He reported that under certain circumstances groups of visitors to Marion will be admitted free to the home and museum. Dr. Sawyer also reported that the association's new souvenirs, little book markers, will be offered at less than cost prices to groups wishing them as souvenirs of Marion.

Report on Grounds

The grounds committee report given by Harold Augenstein, caretaker, and others, revealed that there is work to be done on the walks, at a probable cost of several hundred dollars, and also calking on the south side of the memorial where the construction has suffered from temperature changes. The need for steps to insure preservation of the structure was emphasized.

After the meeting of the membership the trustees held their session and elected the officers. Letters of regret were read from several out-of-town members: James J. Davis, Charles E Hughes, Albert D Lasker and E. P. Mellon.

Members Present

Members of the association present were Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, Charles D Schaffner, Michael C O'Brien, Ray R King, R. T Lewis, George Frank, J Fred Dombaugh, Bennett Bindley, Walter Schaffner, Edward T Huber, J W. Llewellyn, Chester C. Roberts, Paul D Michel, French Crow, Dr. Warren Sawyer and Mr. Donithen, all of Marion, and Louis H Brush of Salem.

The executive committee, which handles the association's affairs during the year, will be appointed by Dr. Sawyer soon.

GALION COUPLE WED AT HOME OF BRIDE

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct 14—One of the loveliest home wedding of the season uniting a well known Galion couple, took place Saturday afternoon at 2 30 o'clock when Virginia L Hocker became the bride of Edwin Paul Monroe Jr, son of Mr. and Mrs E. P Monroe of Harding Way West. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr and Mrs. Fred C Hocker.

To repeat their vows the couple stood before an improvised white altar arranged in front of the large window at the end of the living room. All decorations and flowers used were in colors of green and white. Four seven-branch candelabra, two on each side of the altar, palms and ferns added to the impressive setting.

Descending the stairs, the bride was met by her father who escorted her down the white walk to give her in marriage. The wedding gown was made of white taffeta, tight bodice pointed at the waist, sweetheart neckline and long sleeves that came to a point over the wrist. She wore a ring of rubies and diamonds that had been set in two linked hearts, which was a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs Edward Hoekstra of Ashland, aunt of the bride, was the matron of honor.

Four-year-old Ann Allison of Columbus, was the flower girl. Edward Hoekstra of Ashland, the bride's uncle, was best man. Rev. R. R Elliker, pastor of First Reformed church, read the single ring ceremony in the presence of 40 guests. The guests were seated by Matthew Hoekstra of Galion.

The traditional wedding marches were played by the bride's niece, Joanne Hoekstra of Galion, and preceding the ceremony twenty minutes of harp music was played by Mrs. J. Herbert of Mansfield who also played softly while the vows were being exchanged.

In the dining room, a large wedding bell covered with white flowers hung over the bride's table which had a floral centerpiece. Friends of the bride who helped to serve were Betty Strother, Virginia Boyd, Mrs. Neil Brentlinger and Muriel Ricker.

The couple left on a wedding trip to North Carolina and southeastern states.

After Nov. 1, the couple will live in the new Monroe building.

Until recently the bride was employed as teller at the Commercial Savings bank. She was graduated from Galion High school in 1936.

Mr Monroe was graduated from the Culver Military Academy, attended Ohio Wesleyan university and was graduated from Rollins College at Winter Park, Fla. He affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is advertising manager of the Hercules Steel Products company of Galion.

MRS. H. C. ROGERS OF UNCAPHER AVE. DIES

Funeral Services To Be Held Wednesday at 2 P. M.

Mrs Marie L. Rogers, 42, wife of Harold C. Rogers, died at 12 40 o'clock this afternoon at her residence, 698 Uncapher avenue. She had been ill two weeks.

Mrs. Rogers was born west of Galion June 15, 1898 to the late Conrad and Mary Krebs. She and Mr Rogers lived at Caledonia before coming to Marion two years ago. She was a member of Memorial Methodist church at Caledonia.

Surviving with the husband are two sons, Charles L. and Robert A. both at home, two sisters and a brother, Mrs. Jay Speery and Mrs. Bert Bradley, both of Galion, John C. Krebs of LaRue and Mrs Victor Hawk of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m at the Merle H. Hughes funeral home on Mt Vernon avenue with Rev J. B Swain in charge. Burial will be in the Mt. Gilead cemetery. Friends may call at the residence after 8 o'clock tonight or at the funeral home after noon Wednesday.

2 Attend Sunday School 12 Years Without Absence

Pins for perfect attendance were awarded several members of the Epworth Methodist Sunday school at the services Sunday. Heading the list are Lois J Murray, daughter of Mrs Mary E. Murray of Carhart street, and Ray Eaton Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Eaton of Olney avenue, who received pins for attendance records. Both are 18 years of age.

Others receiving pins are James Eckert, nine years, Francis Hedge, eight years, Helen Berry, five years, Dick Dill, four years, Tom Dill, three years, and Eleanor Jean Grant one year. The pins were presented by R S Williams, superintendent of the intermediate department. Both Miss Murray and Mr. Eaton are active in the work of the Sunday school. The former has served as department secretary, and the latter as librarian of the department for several years. Mr Eaton also is an usher in the church.

RELATIVE OF MARION CO. RESIDENTS IS STRICKEN

Word has been received here of the death of Jotham J Bebout, about 77, retired farmer, at his home in Kingfisher, Okla. He died early Sunday after a long illness. The widow and a daughter survive. Mr. Bebout, a native of Mt. Vernon, served in the Spanish-American war, and spent most of his life in the west. Relatives here are Mrs Bebout's brothers, W. G. Slack of 448 Summit street and J. A. Slack of 483 Pearl street, and a sister, Mrs J. M. Lanius of Green Camp.

MT. GILEAD—The Morrow county grange chorus will compete with the Crawford county grange chorus at the Claridon school Friday night, Oct 18. The winner of this district will compete in a regional contest for the right to enter the state event.

District Contest for Model Planes Attracts Large Crowd to Airport

One Entry Disappears, Another Soars to 3,000 Feet As Strong Wind Sweeps Tiny Ships.

A large crowd Sunday afternoon attended a model airplane show at Marion airport the first of a series to be held under sponsorship of the Marion Gasoline Model Airplane club.

A strong breeze whipped the model planes around in the sky, providing unscheduled "stunts" and thrills. Verlin F Haines, chairman of the committee in charge estimated the attendance at 3,000.

Plane Disappears

A rubber-propelled model owned by Ned Saltz flew high into the sky, disappeared toward the horizon and never returned. Saltz automatically was awarded first prize in the rubber-motor division.

A clipper stunt plane owned by Herb Palmer of Shelby set the altitude record for the show, reaching approximately 1,800 feet in 17 seconds and then soaring to an altitude estimated at 3,000 feet.

A six-foot gasoline-motored plane owned by Ted Rhoads of Marion towed a six-foot banner.

Altogether 36 gasoline models and 21 rubber-propelled models took part in the show, the group of Marion enthusiasts being joined by model builders from Shelby, Mansfield, Wooster, Iberia, Bucyrus, Kenton and Bloomville.

Gasoline Model Winners

In the gasoline model division first prize was won by Miss Mildred Zimmerman of Mansfield, second by Herb Palmer of Shelby, third by Harold Heaton of Mansfield, Ted Rhoads of Marion and Jack Berling of Shelby. In the rubber-motor division the first prize was awarded to Saltz, second to Dick Rhoads of Marion, third to T Babcock of Marion, fourth to Vern Hayford of Iberia and fifth to Frank Ebert of Mt. Gilead.

Mr Haines reported the club is planning another show in about three weeks.

Mar-O-Del Golfers Avenge Previous Loss by Winning from Country Club

Mar-O-Del linksmen avenged an earlier loss when they defeated Marion Country club golfers, 33½ to 28½, Sunday on the victors' home course. Forty-two par-busters teed off and when they crossed the finish line Bud Baker of the Mar-O-Del crowd had the low card of 69.

Second to Baker was the 74 carded by another Mar-O-Del sharpshooter, Johnny Rife. The best score in the Country club contingent was the 75 of Jack Bray, while Elmer Darnell was second with 77 and Dr W A. Dennis third with 78.

Complete scores, listing first the Country club player, his score and points won in parenthesis, and the same for the Mar-O-Del linksmen with whom he was paired, follow.

COUPLE EXCHANGE VOWS AT GALION PARSONAGE

Special to The Star

GALION—In a quiet ceremony at 7:45 o'clock Sunday morning, Dorothy Shultz of Mansfield, daughter of Oden Shultz of Cleveland, exchanged marriage vows with Harold A Strauch, son of Mr and Mrs Fred Laubscher of Galion, at the parsonage of the First Reformed church in Galion. The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. R. R Elliker.

The bride was attended by Coletta Coy of Galion. The best man was Paul Jones of Galion.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony. The couple left immediately for a trip through the southern states. When they return they will make their home at 739 Harding Way West in Galion.

For some time the bride has been beauty salon operator at the Mansfield Leland hotel, Mansfield. She was graduated from John Hay High school, and the Academy of Beauty Culture in Cleveland.

Mr. Strauch who is a salesman for the Galion Motor Sales was graduated from Galion High school.

Many Leaders Suffer from Neglect in Today's Wall Street Trading.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — While selected stocks were given a moderate lift in today's market, many leaders suffered from neglect.

Bonds were mixed, with Japanese dollar loans extending their recovery. Securities at London improved. Commodities steadied.

Receiving occasional support were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Crucible common and preferred, United Aircraft, U. S. Rubber, New York Central, J. C. Penney, Chrysler, General Motors and Westinghouse.

Wall Street interpreted as constructive exemption by Wage-Hour Administrator Fleming of several hundred thousand white-collar employes from the overtime provisions of the labor law.

Encouragement was derived from reports of heavy orders for new cars from those attending the national automobile show in New York.

WHEAT PRICES UP AT CHICAGO TODAY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—Scattered speculative buying coupled with some support from milling interests, today lifted wheat prices around a cent a bushel.

Trade was narrow most of the session and traders lacked enthusiasm. A sharp increase of the amount of wheat on which the government had loaned money was the chief topic of discussion. It was generally believed that prices of future deliveries would have to advance to the level of cash grain before there would be a resumption of broad active trade. All other grains likewise displayed strength.

Wheat closed near the day's best levels and ½-⅞ cent above Friday's finish, Dec. 84⅛, May 83½, and corn was ¼-1 cent up, Dec. 59⅞-¾, May 60⅜-⅛; oats unchanged to ¼ up, soy beans 2⅛-3⅜ higher, and lard 2-5 up.

WILLKIE

Schenectady talk he made two suggestions for speeding up the defense program; quick decisions on the type of plans and tanks to be built and "relentless" action against any firms trying to increase its profits on defense orders.

Willkie resumed his criticism of the President's statements on foreign affairs, declaring that they "must end." As at Schenectady, he told how he and two brothers fought in the World war, and how other members of his family engaged in non-military war work.

Mr. Willkie said he feared that Mr. Roosevelt "by his reckless statements, by his assumption of leadership in world affairs * * * at a time when America is not strong, may bring warfare to our shores when it may mean destruction for thousands."

In his defense statement Willkie said the people have been awaiting word as to the production of planes, guns, tanks and other equipment.

Everything But Arms

"So far," he continued, "we have had appropriations, authorizations, contracts, inspection trips, and publicity. The most encouraging actual fact we have had, however, is Mr. (William S.) Knudsen's statement that we will not have the complete equipment for an army of 1,200,000 until December, 1942."

If production was on schedule, he declared, "the publicity organization in Washington would not be bashful in telling us about it." He called for "high speed production without, of course, sacrificing any of the standards regarding wages and hours," and added:

"I know from experience how to get production because that is what I have been hired to do for many years. I also know from experience that workers who are well fed, well paid, and well educated can always beat the slave labor of dictatorships."

In offering his two suggestions Willkie said he never had criticized without giving constructive proposals.

"Only a little more than a week ago," he went on, "we read in the newspapers that at last agreement had been reached on models of certain types of equipment which were to be put into large-scale production.

Planes Needed Now

"It was shocking to realize that there had been this long delay. We want those planes today. We want planes that embody the lessons of the recent past. But above all, we want to get planes in large numbers at once.

"As president, I would compel a prompt decision and not permit the perfectionists to postpone."

Willkie came into New York Saturday night from New England, and in a speech at Albany declared the Democratic national committee had distributed a "scurrilous" "indecent" pamphlet containing "an attack upon my father and my wife."

He described it as an effort to raise racial and religious questions, and added, "this is but an example of the high professions and the low performances of the New Deal."

(Edward J. Flynn, Democratic chairman, repudiated the pamphlet in New York yesterday and said that "no one for a moment questions Mr. Willkie's 100 per cent Americanism." The pamphlet asserted, in part, that Willkie's "whole background is German" and that Mrs. Willkie's parentage was German.)

REGISTRATION

of 423 Summit street, Chester C. Roberts of 251 East Church street and John J. Zuck of 503 Irey avenue.

Representatives of each of the three boards will go to Columbus Wednesday for a final instruction meeting at 10:30 a. m. in Memorial hall.

The draft boards and other draft officials, including advisory boards and appeals agents, are not expected to have much work to do until after registration is completed.

The board of elections will complete its part in the draft work, for the time being, with the registration on Wednesday. It will turn all its registration records over to the various draft boards later this week.

The election board received the last of its registration supplies Saturday—check-off lists of instructions for registrars and comprehensive instruction booklets for officials.

All these supplies, together with others received earlier, will be distributed for each precinct at tonight's meeting.

Dr. C. J. Altmaier, president of the election board, is expected to preside. As a part of the instructions, some of the workers are expected to give actual demonstrations of registering.

Details of Registration

All Marion county men between the ages of 21 and 35, inclusive, are required to go to their regular precinct polling places Wednesday between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. to register for the draft. Registrations are expected to average 20 minutes. Only 11 simple questions will be asked. These will be posted at the polling places and registrants are urged to get their answers lined up before they go to the registrar's desk.

There will be at least one registrar on duty in each polling place at all times during the day.

In the supplies received Saturday was an estimate from Columbus that approximately 15 per cent of the population of the county will register on Wednesday—one per cent for each age-year registered. This is approximately 6,740 persons.

After registration is completed, the registration cards will be given to the chairmen of the three draft boards who will then await the drawing of the draft lottery in Washington in the next few days.

Week Brings New Experience To Americans

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—This is the week, Wednesday is the day. There has never been another like it in American peacetime history.

Some 16,404,000 young men between 21 and 36 will register Wednesday for a possible call to a year's compulsory military training, and the census bureau estimated that a third of them would come from the nation's 90 big cities—those with 100,000 inhabitants or more.

New York City will register about 1,107,400; Chicago, 504,100; Detroit, 276,100; Philadelphia, 220,200; and Los Angeles, 220,700. All told, according to estimates based on 1930 figures, the 90 cities will register about 5,414,000.

Estimates for Cities

Among the registration estimated for the cities were:

Ohio — Akron 38,000; Canton, 14,900; Cincinnati, 61,000; Cleveland, 122,400; Columbus, 42,000; Dayton, 30,000; Toledo, 40,800; Youngstown, 21,900.

Reports to national selective service headquarters are that all arrangements are complete or up to schedule.

About 125,000 registration places have been located, usually at regular election precincts, though some states will use schools. Registration will take place between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. local time.

Approximately 1,000,000 registrars—election officials or school teachers — have been designated and instructed by county clerks.

Thousands of other volunteer workers are standing by to help at rush hours. Pools of volunteers have been organized in many places to await calls for help.

Millions of volunteers from business, civic, fraternal and social groups are arranging to see that all eligible men register. Some automobile owners will provide transportation for registrants.

About 700,000 copies of the president's proclamation ordering the registration have been posted around the country in public places. No further official notice will be given.

Washington has sent out 730,000 booklets containing registration rules. Every registration board should have at least one copy.

32 Million Cards

Printed locally, 32,000,000 registration cards—roughly two to each registrant, to allow for spoilage—are being distributed to registration boards, along with 25,000,000 registration certificates to be given to men who register.

Men between 21 and 36, whether citizens or alien, should go to the registration place closest to home, if possible, but if they are unavoidably away from home, they may register at the nearest registration place.

Those outside the United States must register within five days after returning. Hospitals will have special registrars for the sick. A man ill at home may have a competent person apply to registration officials for authority to register him.

Willful evaders are liable to penalties up to five years in prison and $10,000 fine.

ANOTHER ENTERED IN CORN CONTEST

County Husking Event Deadline Set Tonight.

Another entry in the county corn husking contests was reported today as the county committee prepared to meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the office of County Agent Homer Porteus. The contests are scheduled for Oct. 17 at the Earl Drake farm near Agosta.

Deadline for entries was to come at 8 o'clock tonight.

The new entry is M. V. Noel of near LaRue, a former champion, in the standing corn contest.

Other entries were expected before the deadline this evening.

RUSSIANS

cluding the Kiel and Wilhelmshaven naval bases, oil plants, the great Krupp armaments works at Essen, German airdromes. There was the usual "nightly offensive" against channel "invasion" ports from Ostend to Le Havre.

About 1,000 Americans were reported seeking passage home to the United States from Britain before the onset of winter. The United States embassy in London began a poll to determine how many wish to return home in the event that Washington sends over a special refugee ship as requested by Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

Because of the neutrality act, Americans are not permitted to take passage on ships flying belligerent flags.

In Athens and Istanbul, in Belgrade and Sofia, official circles asserted this week's events might tell the story of whether the Balkan peninsula — long Europe's powder keg—would be drawn into the European conflict.

Well-informed quarters in the Rumanian capital reported that Soviet monitors had sunk two Rumanian patrol boats in the Danube region recently.

Turkish newspapers emphasized that Germany's movement of troops into Rumania contained a threat to Russia.

Yugoslavs Stand Pat

Amid reports that the axis powers were putting pressure on Yugoslavia to abandon her neutrality and grant them military concessions, Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic declared his country was "created in blood and only in that way can territory be taken from her." Italian troops are reported concentrated in Albania next to southern Yugoslavia and Greece.

The British, reporting new raids on Germany and Nazi-held channel ports, claimed that a recent RAF attack on the Nazi-held French port of Lorient killed "over 3,000 German soldiers" in the sinking of two transports.

The Italian high command said light Italian warships sank a British cruiser and damaged an aircraft carrier and another cruiser in a naval battle off British Malta, but the British while acknowledging the possibility of such a clash, said it had no information to bear out the Italian claims.

The Italians admitted the loss of a destroyer and two torpedo boats.

The Chinese-Japanese war flares up again with the Chinese claiming the recapture of the strategic Yangtze river port of Motang, and a guerilla artillery action that destroyed 14 grounded Japanese bombers at Ichang in Hupeh province.

Japanese official and press circles reflected concern at the U. S. State department's intention of sending special liners to remove Americans from the orient.
